Thant Talks to Soviets

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union publicly urged on the Vietnamese Communists to new victories today while Kremlin leaders secretly discussed peace prospects with U.N. Secretary-General U Thant.

After his talks, Thant departed for London to confer with Prime Minister Harold Wilson. He had come to Moscow from India where he met with Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, U.S. Ambassador Chester Bowles and a North Vietnamese diplomat.

Britain is cochairman with the Soviet Union of the Geneva conference which ended the French-Indochina war in 1954. India is a member of the International Control Commission for Vietnam.

Complete Soviet support for the peace programs of Hanoi and the Viet Cong, and promises of continued aid in fighting the United States, were given here while Thant was meeting with Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, Communist party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev and President Nikolai V. Podgorny.

Thant refused to talk to reporters before he left.

Thant's London schedule called for a meeting Tuesday morning with Foreign Secretary George Brown and luncheon with Wilson before departing for New York.

Wilson said Sunday after a visit to Johnson that he supported President Johnson's San Antonio formula as the road to peace in Vietnam. He said he had carried the proposal to Kosygin when he visited Moscow Jan. 22-24.

Johnson in a speech in San Antonio, Tex., last September promised an end to the bombing of North Vietnam when there is assurance from the Communist side that this will lead to prompt, productive peace talks. North Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen Duy Trinh said last week the talks could begin as soon as the bombing stopped.

Wilson was interviewed on the CBS television-radio program "Face the Nation."

British Conservative party leader Edward Heath accused Wilson on his return to London Sunday of "lecturing" Johnson instead of supporting the President when, in a speech at the White House Friday night, he advised the President to ignore "impatient and exasperated demands" for intensification of the fighting. But the New York Times said it was thought Wilson "spoke with the President's advance knowledge and approval. In other words, Mr. Johnson used his visitor to strengthen his own hand against advocates of escalation."

In Paris, neutral sources with close contacts in Vietnam suggested that the aim of the Viet Cong offensive in the cities was to unseat or discredit the Saigon government to keep it out of future peace negotiations.

They said the Viet Cong goal appears to be to kill, kidnap or threaten so many government officials that President Nguyen Van Thieu's government can no longer be considered operating, and any peace negotiations would be between the United States on one side and North Vietnam and the Viet Cong on the other.

In the United States, Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said Sunday that the Communist offensive against South Vietnam's cities had made clear that no part of the country is secure.

Fire Damages Laundry

Sixteen firemen fought a blaze that resulted in extensive damage to equipment of Sikeston Laundry and Dry Cleaners, 517 East Malone, Saturday night.

Cause of the fire that was reported at 10:15 p.m. Saturday was thought to be electrical.

Firemen fought the blaze for an hour and a half and kept it from spreading to other parts of the building.

About 30 pieces of laundry equipment was destroyed, Mrs. M. E. Taylor, wife of the owner, said today. There was smoke damage to the office.

No estimate of the damage has been made.

Mrs. Taylor said the office would remain open for business.

Court Ruling Voids Ad Ban

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Supreme Court today knocked out some rules established by the State Board of Optometry which, the court said, were meant to bar optical companies from advertising prices.

"We fail to see," the court said, "how the lawful conduct of 'another person' with whom an optometrist is 'affiliated,' which affiliation by itself is not specified by the board to be unlawful, can result in a presumption that the optometrist is engaged in advertising by means of false and deceptive statements, or is employing procurers to obtain business."

The suit was brought by 19 optometrists against the state board. They won in Cole County Circuit Court but the board appealed.

The optometrists said the legislature violated the constitution by giving unwarranted rule-making power. The Supreme Court denied that.

The attack on the rules, briefly amounted to this:

In some cases, optometrists occupied offices next to an optical firm that advertised eyeglasses for specific prices but, generally, did not say that a prescription would have to be obtained from a licensed optometrist.

The rules drawn by the optometric board attempted to bar such arrangements but the court said:

"We observe that it would be reasonable to suspect that all of those rules are invalid when we consider that admittedly the primary, though indirect, objective the board sought to achieve by adopting the rules was to eliminate the advertising of prices by optical companies over which the board had no jurisdiction or control."

In a case involving the Ruberoid Co. of Annapolis, Mo., the court sent the dispute back to the State Tax Commission for review and ordered the commission to take into consideration the value of the company's leasehold.

The circuit court of Iron County upheld an assessed valuation of Ruberoid's leasehold interest on 82.75 acres of land at $1,085,400.

The company started operations in August, 1965, after the city had issued $5 million in industrial revenue bonds to build the plant. With interest, the total was $7,047,318 and the company agreed to pay this off, plus rentals of $1,000 a year.

In other decisions the high court:

Agreed with the Harrison County Circuit Court that the Missouri Public Service Co. and the State Highway Commission were not liable for damages of more that $60,000 sought by the Parsons Construction Co. Parsons complained its work on Rt. DD in Harrison County was delayed because of the utility's delay in changing the location of its transmission line poles.

Upheld the action of a Buchanan County Circuit Court jury in finding Robert D. Gray guilty of rape. He was sentenced to five years in prison.

Affirmed the life term given Albert Booth, a 25-year-old heroin addict, for murdering James Bailey in St. Louis Jan. 10, 1965 shortly after he had taken a shot of the drug.

Girl Reported To Be Missing

Cleo McCormick, 421 Pam St., reported to the police early today, that his daughter, Patsy Jean McCormick, 15, had not returned home since leaving her work at Southside cafe, Sunday at 3 p.m.

She was last seen entering a car with two boys. She has black hair, was wearing black rim glasses, and a blue stripe dress.

The United Pentecostal church, 338 Matthews, was entered Friday by boys, and damage done to the office and basement.

Neighbors reported having seen several boys enter the church through a basement window. Office papers were scattered about the room and items in the basement were broken.

Three File for Police Judge

NEW MADRID -- Three have filed for police judge in the April 2 city election according to the city clerk, Mrs. Pauline Allen.

They are Billy Thompson, Richard Pierce and Herschel Lott.

Judge J. S. Bledsoe has not filed for reelection.

Other offices to be filed at the election, and whose two-year terms expire in April, are Mayor Robert E. Riley; Collector Jack Long; City Marshal O. E. Householder; city alderman, James Helms of ward one; alderman Bob Blum of ward two and Alderman Dick Philips Jr. of ward three.

None of the incumbents have declared their candidacy.

On March 2, 1909, the Kansas Legisature made it "unlawful for any person, company, or corporation to sell or give away any cigaret or cigaret papers." The law remained in force until its repeal in 1927.

Inn Robbed Of $3,700

POPLAR BLUFF -- The Holiday Inn on highway 67 was robbed of $3,700, by a lone bandit, who was described as being a handsom, well dressed man of about 25.

He had been in the lounge and cafeteria and was thought to be a customer, when a 1 a.m. Sunday he walked to the office, pulled out a small caliber pistol, believed to be a .22 or .25 caliber, and held up two attendants, Dollie Kuper and Claude Marshall.

The man was described as being five feet, eight inches tall, weighing about 145 pounds, dark wavy hair, and wearing a green-grey pullover sweater, and black trousers.

Of the total taken, all in a Poplar Bluff bank pouch, there was $700 in cash and currency, and about $3,000 in checks, a few for large amounts.

Chance of Snow In Forecast

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Predictions of snow and temperatures near zero brought the realities of winter back to Missourians today.

The Weather Bureau said there may be a few snow flurries in the northwest by tonight and snow may begin in the southwest sections late tonight and spread over much of the state Tuesday.

Temperatures may drop tonight to zero to five above to five above in the north and to the teens and low 20s elsewhere. The bureau said the cold will continue in the northwest Tuesday and highs in the east and south will be in the 20s and low 30s Tuesday.

Kirksville recorded 13 Sunday night and St. Louis, Springfield and Cape Girardeau had 14.

Attempts Suit on Michael

Scott county prosecuting attorney Fielding Potashnick recommended the county court begin suit today against county collector Aubrey Michael to collect in excess of $200,000 in penalties potentially due the county because of late payment of county funds to the treasurer during the past two years.

According to state statute, Potashnick said, the collector incurs a penalty of 10 per cent of the amount due the county for late payments.

Payments come due by law the 15th of the month following the month they are collected. For example, the county tax collections for December should be paid to the county treasurer no later than Jan. 15.

The county collector of Scott county has never paid the treasurer by or before the due date in the past five years, Potashnick said. The statute of limitations only covers the past two years. The penalty of 10 per cent computed on the late funds for the past two years is roughly in excess of $200,000 Potashnick told the three-man court this morning.

Potashnick asked the court to consider three factors in rendering their decision: First, that the statutes are not being followed by the collector; second, that when the collections are not turned in one time it delays dispensing funds to the schools, and thirdly, when the money is not received on time county interest on the money is lost.

The December, 1967 county tax collections were paid to the county treasurer's office Feb. 7, almost a full month later than the due date Jan. 15. The December total paid the treasurer on Feb. 7, was $1,526,234.

Yet, the amount paid as December collections is $81,533 more than the collector's account shows in the bank as of Jan. 31, 1968. A figure of $1,444,701.92 was shown as county funds in the collector's account on Jan. 31. But this information was not brought before the county court today.

That $81,533 was put in the bank after Jan. 31, J. W. Shuffitt, assistant collector, said.

When asked why the $81,533 was not in the bank as of Jan. 31, he said, "You'll have to ask Mr. Michael about that."

Michael could not be reached for comment.

Potashnick said he was not aware of the late payments until after Jan. 26 when he received a letter of notification that the December, 1967, collections had not been received by county clerk Phil Waldman.

Waldman said he notified Potashnick because he had not received the December collection totals, which he needed to prepare the county budget.

"I have to file the budget by Feb. 1. Since I had no figures on the December collections, I thought it best to follow the statutes on it to keep the state auditor's office from asking me why I didn't follow the law," Waldman said today.

The letter of notification Waldman sent Potashnick on Jan. 26, was the first such notification the prosecutor ever received of late payments, Waldman confirmed.

"In preparing the budget on previous years," Waldman said, "I have always had rough figures of what was collected in December."

Potashnick told the court today if he had been notified sooner, he would have recommended suit earlier. He suggested the court file suit before Wednesday so the January, 1966, collection could be included in the penalty figures.

The court told Potashnick they would consider his recommendation and render a decision. Later in the morning the court notified the prosecutor that it had decided the late payments do not warrant any further action by the court.

Michael appeared in court today and told the court he had never failed to make a settlement and would follow the law on payments to the letter if that was Potashnick's concern.

"This is strictly a personal grudge on the part of Potashnick," Michael said today. "I've never refused to make a settlement. The operations of the collector's office is a big job. It takes lots of works, whether people believe it or not. They don't have to check with me, they can ask my staff."

Michael told the court this morning, "I don't know what Mr. Potashnick has in mind. I didn't know he was that bitter against me. I've always gotten the money to the schools. I think he's wrong in his heart and his mind."

"He's just got it in for me and wants to do something to me," Michael said later.

County funds are kept in the collector's account until payment is made to the county treasurer Michael said. Nobody enforces the time limitation to the letter of the law. You've got to use common sense in anything like this, Michael said.

According to the statute the 10 per cent penalty applies in two situations: One, when there is no settlement made, and two, when settlement is made beyond the statutory period.

The statutes also provide that the county collector will provide the county courts with a written report of the previous months collections within five days of the following month.

The three county judges, J. E. Childress, H. S. Rodgers, and Robert Davis, heard Potashnick's recommendations today for the second time. The prosecutor had met with the court last Monday, but Michael could not appear at that time.

Judge Davis said in court today that he didn't want to see anything here like what is happening north of here. His reference was to suits against the past collector of Cape Girardeau county Bill Rose.

"We have one settlement and I'm sure we'll get the others. This isn't going to help anybody," Davis said.

Judge Rodgers asked Potashnick today if in the previous meeting he had not declared that he was a "politician and did not want this incident thrown in his face in following years?" Potashnick replied, "Yes, I did." He went on to explain that he assumed the notification of late payment was for the purpose that he check the law, and after finding the statutes were being violated to recommend the county court take action.

Judge Rodgers also asked Potashnick if he also had implied that personal banking interests might be involved. Potashnick said, he did.

Potashnick said after receiving notification that the court does not intend to file suit that he would file a formal report of the late payments with the county court and again recommend suit be filed against Michael.

Allies Hammer Holdouts

SAIGON (AP) -- Vietnamese warplanes bombed and strafed Communist Forces holding out in Hue's Citadel today after U. S. Marine reinforcements were sent into the walled fortress for the first time in the two-week battle.

The allied assaults were part of an all-out effort to drive the Communist North Vietnamese regulars and Viet Cong guerrillas from areas they have held since Jan. 31.

The Communists, holding the Citadel's southeast corner, put up a hail of .50-caliber antiaircraft fire at the attacking planes. Cloudy cover lifted to permit the first air attack on the fortress in 10 days.

Two companies of Marines--and 300 to 400 men -- entered the Citadel from landing craft sent up the Perfume River Sunday and another two companies of Leathernecks were taken to the Citadel's northern wall by assault boats today.

The Marines have already recaptured the southern part of Hue in a series of street battles in the old imperial capital since the Communists attacked Hue in the early stages of their big offensive against 35 cities and towns.

Addition of the 400 fresh men swelled the Leatherneck force in Hue to about 1,000 men. AP correspondent George McArthur reported from Hue that the Marines were meeting only occasional sniper fire in the southern part of the city 400 miles north of Saigon.

He said there were indications all North Vietnamese troops had withdrawn from the fighting for the south side.

Southern Senator Admitted Lincoln Fan

WASHINGTON (AP) — At least one Southern Democrat in the Senate will join Republicans today in honoring the birthday anniversary of Abraham Lincoln, GOP patron saint and Civil War president.

Amid preparations for "Lincoln Day" observances around the nation, traditional occasion for speech-making and campaign fund-raising efforts by Republican politicians, Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr., D-Va., said of Lincoln:

"He was one of our great presidents."

Byrd said Northerners shouldn't be surprised that a Southerner such as himself thinks highly of Lincoln, born 159 years ago.

He noted Lincoln's declaration of "malice toward none and charity toward all."

"Had he lived," said the senator in an interview, "the plight of the South would have been much less severe."

Visitors to his Senate office find a portrait of Lincoln in a prominent position on Byrd's desk, emblazoned on the front of his leather-covered appointment book.

"I'm a great admirer of Lincoln," he said. "When I see one like this in a stationery store, I buy it."

One of Byrd's hobbies is history, and much of his reading has been concerned with Lincoln and his time, the senator said.

"What was perhaps our most tragic era— tragic because of this war which was a fight within the family, so to speak— produced two of the greatest leaders we have had: Lincoln and Rober E. Lee."

Byrd, a newspaper publisher and former editor, said he admires Lincoln not only as a strong and compassionate leader but also as a literary figure.

"His ability to write with such conciseness impressed me greatly," he said. "So many of his remarks had such common sense to them."

Byrd, whose family has roots deep in Virginia history, said he finds no embarrassment in being an admirer of the Civil War president.

Richmond was the capital of the Confederacy, much of the state was ravaged by the war and the final surrender of Southern forces was at Appomattox Court House, Va.

But, Byrd noted, Lincoln also had roots in Virginia. His father was from the Shenandoah Valley, not far from Byrd's home.

Special Session Half Over

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — With the 60-day special legislative session half over the two houses came back to work today with no great burden of work for the week.

The Senate will be waiting for its appropriations committee to complete its adjusting od House budget figures. The plan is to finish committee work Wednesday and report the bills to the Senate Thursday. That will set the stage for Senate action on the money measure next week.

The Senate Apportionment Committee will meet late Tuesday to consider Sen. Omer H. Avery's version of a congressional redistricting bill. Avery, Troy Democrat, is chairman of the senate committee.

The House has shelved its Redistricting Committee chairman's redistricting bill until the U.S. Supreme Court acts on Missouri's appeal of federal court rejection of the 1967 redistricting law.

Three Heads Injured

Three were admitted to the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community hospital over the weekend.

Treated Sunday were Vera Jones, Bloomfield, fell hitting head; Betty Heacox, Sikeston, hit head on mirror, received small cut on right knee cap; and Robert L. Taylor, Oran, bitten on forehead by rat.

NFO Extends Boycott to Meat

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — The National Farmers Organization extended its month-old grain market boycott to meat Monday, demanding up to six cents per pound more on sales of cattle, hogs and sheep.

"We're prepared to hold whatever time it takes," said Oren Lee Staley, president of the militant farmer organization.

He said NFO members in 35 states would offer contracts only to meat processors "willing to sign and pay the price."

Staley said the goal of the withholding is to boost hog prices from 19 to 23 cents a pound, cattle from 26 to 32 cents and sheep from 23 to 29 cents.

Staley said the meat withholding was timed to coincide with "substantial gains" in the grain market boycott called Jan. 11 but before grain in elevators became short, putting prices out of reach for cattlemen in need of feed.

"We were watching the grain supply in elevators as we had anticipated doing," said Staley. "Now we are ready for a holdout perhaps as long as the 43 days of the 1964 action."

Prices for corn, oats, wheat, rye, soybeans and sorghums has edged upward only pennies since the grain embargo of Jan. 11.

Trade specialists say that in addition to the NFO action factors involved in higher prices include increased exports, a big farmer turnout to join the government's 1968 acreage diversion program, grains held off the market under government loan and the political tension in Southeast Asia.

The result is a cloudy picture of what effect the withholding action has had, if any.

NFO President Oren Lee Staley points to a fresh one-cent hike in corn prices at Chicago as evidence that the flow of corn is beginning to stop. Dealers, however, report neither shortage nor stockpiling.

Staley says farmers can outlast the grain traders as long as grain can be stored under government loan at prices equal to or higher than the market price, a current condition.

But Bob Skinner of the Iowa Grain and Feed Dealers Association thinks the boycott has stalled. "If all farmers would stop selling grain it would affect the market in a hurry," said Skinner. "I don't think we are going to see any effects."

U.S. Rep. Mark Andrews, R-N.D., feels the boycott was illtimed. "Once the grain is produced, individual holding back doesn't work too well. Generally, the middleman can wait," Andrews told a Missouri farmer meeting last week.

On the Chicago market Friday, No. 2 corn sold for $1.18 a bushel, about five cents more than on Jan. 11. The NFO is holding out for $1.50.

Soybeans traded Friday went for $2.73, seven cents above the Jan. 11 price. The NFO is seeking $3 a bushel. Wheat was near $1.66— up 36 cents from Jan. 11— with the NFO asking $2 in its pledge of "no price, no production."

Three Fires Extinguished

Firemen extinguished three fires Sunday.

Oil burning in a container at Sikeston Diesel Repair, 106 Roberts street, sprung a leak and damaged a door in the building. The fire occurred at 1 p.m.

Salamander, an oil being burned for heat, temporarily got out of hand, a workman said. Damage was minor.

At 3:55 p.m. Sunday firemen were called to extinguish a grass fire on a vacant lot on Smith avenue.

A car owned by Arthur Kem parked at 609 Taylor street caught fire at 6 p.m. Sunday. The upholstery of the vehicle was damaged.

Police Make Eight Arrests

Police made eight arrests over the weekend. Glenn H. Davis, route four, Poplar Bluff, was charged with running a stop sign; Herbert Reno, Sikeston, was charged with public intoxication; Franklin D. Jones, 304 Sunset, was charged with assault and battery; Bruce Lewis, Matthews, was charged with public intoxication and posted a $12 bond;

Charles C. Parr, East Prairie, was charged with excessive speed, and posted a $24 bond; James Archie, 225 Alabama, was charged with discharging firearms; West Jackson, 110 Luther, was charged with disturbing the peace; James M. Young, 315 W. Gladys, was charged with, driving while intoxicated and of holding an expired driver's license.

Three Teenagers Hurt in Traffic Accident

In a single car accident at 9:40 p.m. Saturday on highway 25, three miles south of Clarkton, a 1967 Volkswagen, driven by Janet Fox, 17, Kennett, failed to make a turn, ran off the road and turned over in an open field, the state patrol reported.

Receiving minor injuries were the driver; Judy White, 16; and Carla Nunley 17, all of Kennett. They were treated at the Dunklin County Memorial hospital in Kennett.

Saturday at 5:25 p.m., one and one-half miles east of Sikeston, Jimmy Roth, 19, Sikeston, said that while driving his 1962 Plymouth, a dog ran in front of his car. He attempted to miss the animal but struck it, causing his car to overturn. He wasn't injured.

Sunday a single accident, resulted in injury to George McCleod, 37, Hayti, on route P at 3:15 p.m., one mile north of Hayti.

He was a passenger in a 1953 Chevrolet truck, driven by his wife, Ruby McCleod, 37, Hayti.

He was cut on the face when the truck ran off the road into a ditch and was treated at the Pemiscot County Memorial hospital in Hayti.

The driver was given a summons on charges of not having an operator's license and careless and imprudent driving.

Park May Come to U.S. to Sooth Doubts

SEOUL (AP) — South Korean President Chung Hee Park is reported considering a trip to talk with President Johnson if U.S. presidential envoy Cyrus Vance doesn't resolve the U.S.-South Korean rift over Korean security.

Vance and Park met for the first time today. Vance's mission is to quiet South Korean fears that the United States is tending toward appeasement in the Pueblo incident and neglecting the increase in the infiltration of armed North Koreans into the South.

Johnson sent Park a personal letter last Thursday, and Vance was expected to deliver another such letter today. Informed Korean sources said Johnson may have invited Park to Washington and, depending on the results of his talks with Vance, Park may decide to go.

In a move welcome to the South Koreans, the American officers who head the U.N. Command in Korea asked for a meeting with North Korea to air claims of Communist truce violations "in and through the demilitarized zone."

North Korea rejected the command's proposal to meet today, but it was indicated that the Communists proposed meeting Wednesday and that this would be acceptable to the U.N. side.

A U.S. military spokesman said four North Koreans crossed into South Korea around midnight Sunday, but American sentries repelled them in a brief clash. No casualties were reported.

There was speculation that Vance would also meet with North Korean representatives before his scheduled departure Tuesday afternoon. The United States and North Korea have held five secret meetings since the Communists seized the U.S. intelligence-gathering ship Pueblo Jan. 23.

No official reports have come out of the talks, but reliable Korean sources said they believed three injured Pueblo crewmen and the body of one sailor who died would be returned soon.

The secret meetings miffed the South Koreans, traditionally strong allies of the United States, who are more concerned about the security threat raised by the Communist commando raid into Seoul Jan. 21 in an attempt to assassinate President Park.

The commandos failed, but a police chief was killed in a gun battle with them only 800 yards from the presidential mansion. Allied forces later killed 27 of the infiltrators and captured one.

South Korean officials also were expected to ask Vance for return of operational control of their 560,000-man armed forces, now held by American Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel III, the commander of U.N. forces in South Korea.

The South Koreans also have been pressing for more U.S. help in modernizing and expanding their armed forces. President Johnson has asked Congress for $100 million in special military aid to Korea, but Park's government said it was more concerned about fundamental security problems than any one-time appropriation.

Some Korean legislators have suggested withdrawal of the 48,000-man Korean force in Vietnam to meet the crisis at home unless the United States takes what they consider a firmer stand in Korea.

In the United States, the Gallup Poll reported only three people out of every 100 interviewed in a survey feel the nation would use all-out military efforts to get the Pueblo back. It said about 40 per cent think the government should make every effort to get the Pueblo back. It said about 40 per cent think the government should make every effort to get the ship back, including some force if necessary. About 21 per cent favor concentrating on negotiations, it reported.

The poll also said 45 per cent of the people polled think the Korean situation is likely to lead to war while 41 per cent think it can be settled peacefully.

Meat, Butter Stolen at School

BLODGETT -- Thieves broke into the grade school over the weekend, and made off with 78 pounds of meat and 30 pounds of butter used in the school cafeteria.

Entrance was gained by breaking a glass in a back window.

The breakin was discovered by the janitor early today.

Meat stolen was 20 pounds of hamburger, 25 pounds of pork shoulder, 26 pounds bologna, and seven chickens.

Thant Talks to Soviets

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union publicly urged on the Vietnamese Communists to new victories today while Kremlin leaders secretly discussed peace prospects with U.N. Secretary-General U Thant.

After his talks, Thant departed for London to confer with Prime Minister Harold Wilson. He had come to Moscow from India where he met with Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, U.S. Ambassador Chester Bowles and a North Vietnamese diplomat.

Britain is cochairman with the Soviet Union of the Geneva conference which ended the French-Indochina war in 1954. India is a member of the International Control Commission for Vietnam.

Complete Soviet support for the peace programs of Hanoi and the Viet Cong, and promises of continued aid in fighting the United States, were given here while Thant was meeting with Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, Communist party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev and President Nikolai V. Podgorny.

Thant refused to talk to reporters before he left.

Thant's London schedule called for a meeting Tuesday morning with Foreign Secretary George Brown and luncheon with Wilson before departing for New York.

Wilson said Sunday after a visit to Johnson that he supported President Johnson's San Antonio formula as the road to peace in Vietnam. He said he had carried the proposal to Kosygin when he visited Moscow Jan. 22-24.

Johnson in a speech in San Antonio, Tex., last September promised an end to the bombing of North Vietnam when there is assurance from the Communist side that this will lead to prompt, productive peace talks. North Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen Duy Trinh said last week the talks could begin as soon as the bombing stopped.

Wilson was interviewed on the CBS television-radio program "Face the Nation."

British Conservative party leader Edward Heath accused Wilson on his return to London Sunday of "lecturing" Johnson instead of supporting the President when, in a speech at the White House Friday night, he advised the President to ignore "impatient and exasperated demands" for intensification of the fighting. But the New York Times said it was thought Wilson "spoke with the President's advance knowledge and approval. In other words, Mr. Johnson used his visitor to strengthen his own hand against advocates of escalation."

In Paris, neutral sources with close contacts in Vietnam suggested that the aim of the Viet Cong offensive in the cities was to unseat or discredit the Saigon government to keep it out of future peace negotiations.

They said the Viet Cong goal appears to be to kill, kidnap or threaten so many government officials that President Nguyen Van Thieu's government can no longer be considered operating, and any peace negotiations would be between the United States on one side and North Vietnam and the Viet Cong on the other.

In the United States, Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said Sunday that the Communist offensive against South Vietnam's cities had made clear that no part of the country is secure.

AFTER THE FIRE Saturday night at the Sikeston Laundry and Dry Cleaners, Chester Swinney looks over a damaged machine used in press-flat work.

Fire Damages Laundry

Sixteen firemen fought a blaze that resulted in extensive damage to equipment of Sikeston Laundry and Dry Cleaners, 517 East Malone, Saturday night.

Cause of the fire that was reported at 10:15 p.m. Saturday was thought to be electrical.

Firemen fought the blaze for an hour and a half and kept it from spreading to other parts of the building.

About 30 pieces of laundry equipment was destroyed, Mrs. M. E. Taylor, wife of the owner, said today. There was smoke damage to the office.

No estimate of the damage has been made.

Mrs. Taylor said the office would remain open for business.

Court Ruling Voids Ad Ban

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Supreme Court today knocked out some rules established by the State Board of Optometry which, the court said, were meant to bar optical companies from advertising prices.

"We fail to see," the court said, "how the lawful conduct of 'another person' with whom an optometrist is 'affiliated,' which affiliation by itself is not specified by the board to be unlawful, can result in a presumption that the optometrist is engaged in advertising by means of false and deceptive statements, or is employing procurers to obtain business."

The suit was brought by 19 optometrists against the state board. They won in Cole County Circuit Court but the board appealed.

The optometrists said the legislature violated the constitution by giving unwarranted rule-making power. The Supreme Court denied that.

The attack on the rules, briefly amounted to this:

In some cases, optometrists occupied offices next to an optical firm that advertised eyeglasses for specific prices but, generally, did not say that a prescription would have to be obtained from a licensed optometrist.

The rules drawn by the optometric board attempted to bar such arrangements but the court said:

"We observe that it would be reasonable to suspect that all of those rules are invalid when we consider that admittedly the primary, though indirect, objective the board sought to achieve by adopting the rules was to eliminate the advertising of prices by optical companies over which the board had no jurisdiction or control."

In a case involving the Ruberoid Co. of Annapolis, Mo., the court sent the dispute back to the State Tax Commission for review and ordered the commission to take into consideration the value of the company's leasehold.

The circuit court of Iron County upheld an assessed valuation of Ruberoid's leasehold interest on 82.75 acres of land at $1,085,400.

The company started operations in August, 1965, after the city had issued $5 million in industrial revenue bonds to build the plant. With interest, the total was $7,047,318 and the company agreed to pay this off, plus rentals of $1,000 a year.

In other decisions the high court:

Agreed with the Harrison County Circuit Court that the Missouri Public Service Co. and the State Highway Commission were not liable for damages of more that $60,000 sought by the Parsons Construction Co. Parsons complained its work on Rt. DD in Harrison County was delayed because of the utility's delay in changing the location of its transmission line poles.

Upheld the action of a Buchanan County Circuit Court jury in finding Robert D. Gray guilty of rape. He was sentenced to five years in prison.

Affirmed the life term given Albert Booth, a 25-year-old heroin addict, for murdering James Bailey in St. Louis Jan. 10, 1965 shortly after he had taken a shot of the drug.

Girl Reported To Be Missing

Cleo McCormick, 421 Pam St., reported to the police early today, that his daughter, Patsy Jean McCormick, 15, had not returned home since leaving her work at Southside cafe, Sunday at 3 p.m.

She was last seen entering a car with two boys. She has black hair, was wearing black rim glasses, and a blue stripe dress.

The United Pentecostal church, 338 Matthews, was entered Friday by boys, and damage done to the office and basement.

Neighbors reported having seen several boys enter the church through a basement window. Office papers were scattered about the room and items in the basement were broken.

Three File for Police Judge

NEW MADRID -- Three have filed for police judge in the April 2 city election according to the city clerk, Mrs. Pauline Allen.

They are Billy Thompson, Richard Pierce and Herschel Lott.

Judge J. S. Bledsoe has not filed for reelection.

Other offices to be filed at the election, and whose two-year terms expire in April, are Mayor Robert E. Riley; Collector Jack Long; City Marshal O. E. Householder; city alderman, James Helms of ward one; alderman Bob Blum of ward two and Alderman Dick Philips Jr. of ward three.

None of the incumbents have declared their candidacy.

Inn Robbed Of $3,700

POPLAR BLUFF -- The Holiday Inn on highway 67 was robbed of $3,700, by a lone bandit, who was described as being a handsom, well dressed man of about 25.

He had been in the lounge and cafeteria and was thought to be a customer, when a 1 a.m. Sunday he walked to the office, pulled out a small caliber pistol, believed to be a .22 or .25 caliber, and held up two attendants, Dollie Kuper and Claude Marshall.

The man was described as being five feet, eight inches tall, weighing about 145 pounds, dark wavy hair, and wearing a green-grey pullover sweater, and black trousers.

Of the total taken, all in a Poplar Bluff bank pouch, there was $700 in cash and currency, and about $3,000 in checks, a few for large amounts.

Chance of Snow In Forecast

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Predictions of snow and temperatures near zero brought the realities of winter back to Missourians today.

The Weather Bureau said there may be a few snow flurries in the northwest by tonight and snow may begin in the southwest sections late tonight and spread over much of the state Tuesday.

Temperatures may drop tonight to zero to five above to five above in the north and to the teens and low 20s elsewhere. The bureau said the cold will continue in the northwest Tuesday and highs in the east and south will be in the 20s and low 30s Tuesday.

Kirksville recorded 13 Sunday night and St. Louis, Springfield and Cape Girardeau had 14.

Attempts Suit on Michael

Scott county prosecuting attorney Fielding Potashnick recommended the county court begin suit today against county collector Aubrey Michael to collect in excess of $200,000 in penalties potentially due the county because of late payment of county funds to the treasurer during the past two years.

According to state statute, Potashnick said, the collector incurs a penalty of 10 per cent of the amount due the county for late payments.

Payments come due by law the 15th of the month following the month they are collected. For example, the county tax collections for December should be paid to the county treasurer no later than Jan. 15.

The county collector of Scott county has never paid the treasurer by or before the due date in the past five years, Potashnick said. The statute of limitations only covers the past two years. The penalty of 10 per cent computed on the late funds for the past two years is roughly in excess of $200,000 Potashnick told the three-man court this morning.

Potashnick asked the court to consider three factors in rendering their decision: First, that the statutes are not being followed by the collector; second, that when the collections are not turned in one time it delays dispensing funds to the schools, and thirdly, when the money is not received on time county interest on the money is lost.

The December, 1967 county tax collections were paid to the county treasurer's office Feb. 7, almost a full month later than the due date Jan. 15. The December total paid the treasurer on Feb. 7, was $1,526,234.

Yet, the amount paid as December collections is $81,533 more than the collector's account shows in the bank as of Jan. 31, 1968. A figure of $1,444,701.92 was shown as county funds in the collector's account on Jan. 31. But this information was not brought before the county court today.

That $81,533 was put in the bank after Jan. 31, J. W. Shuffitt, assistant collector, said.

When asked why the $81,533 was not in the bank as of Jan. 31, he said, "You'll have to ask Mr. Michael about that."

Michael could not be reached for comment.

Potashnick said he was not aware of the late payments until after Jan. 26 when he received a letter of notification that the December, 1967, collections had not been received by county clerk Phil Waldman.

Waldman said he notified Potashnick because he had not received the December collection totals, which he needed to prepare the county budget.

"I have to file the budget by Feb. 1. Since I had no figures on the December collections, I thought it best to follow the statutes on it to keep the state auditor's office from asking me why I didn't follow the law," Waldman said today.

The letter of notification Waldman sent Potashnick on Jan. 26, was the first such notification the prosecutor ever received of late payments, Waldman confirmed.

"In preparing the budget on previous years," Waldman said, "I have always had rough figures of what was collected in December."

Potashnick told the court today if he had been notified sooner, he would have recommended suit earlier. He suggested the court file suit before Wednesday so the January, 1966, collection could be included in the penalty figures.

The court told Potashnick they would consider his recommendation and render a decision. Later in the morning the court notified the prosecutor that it had decided the late payments do not warrant any further action by the court.

Michael appeared in court today and told the court he had never failed to make a settlement and would follow the law on payments to the letter if that was Potashnick's concern.

"This is strictly a personal grudge on the part of Potashnick," Michael said today. "I've never refused to make a settlement. The operations of the collector's office is a big job. It takes lots of works, whether people believe it or not. They don't have to check with me, they can ask my staff."

Michael told the court this morning, "I don't know what Mr. Potashnick has in mind. I didn't know he was that bitter against me. I've always gotten the money to the schools. I think he's wrong in his heart and his mind."

"He's just got it in for me and wants to do something to me," Michael said later.

County funds are kept in the collector's account until payment is made to the county treasurer Michael said. Nobody enforces the time limitation to the letter of the law. You've got to use common sense in anything like this, Michael said.

According to the statute the 10 per cent penalty applies in two situations: One, when there is no settlement made, and two, when settlement is made beyond the statutory period.

The statutes also provide that the county collector will provide the county courts with a written report of the previous months collections within five days of the following month.

The three county judges, J. E. Childress, H. S. Rodgers, and Robert Davis, heard Potashnick's recommendations today for the second time. The prosecutor had met with the court last Monday, but Michael could not appear at that time.

Judge Davis said in court today that he didn't want to see anything here like what is happening north of here. His reference was to suits against the past collector of Cape Girardeau county Bill Rose.

"We have one settlement and I'm sure we'll get the others. This isn't going to help anybody," Davis said.

Judge Rodgers asked Potashnick today if in the previous meeting he had not declared that he was a "politician and did not want this incident thrown in his face in following years?" Potashnick replied, "Yes, I did." He went on to explain that he assumed the notification of late payment was for the purpose that he check the law, and after finding the statutes were being violated to recommend the county court take action.

Judge Rodgers also asked Potashnick if he also had implied that personal banking interests might be involved. Potashnick said, he did.

Potashnick said after receiving notification that the court does not intend to file suit that he would file a formal report of the late payments with the county court and again recommend suit be filed against Michael.

Allies Hammer Holdouts

SAIGON (AP) -- Vietnamese warplanes bombed and strafed Communist Forces holding out in Hue's Citadel today after U. S. Marine reinforcements were sent into the walled fortress for the first time in the two-week battle.

The allied assaults were part of an all-out effort to drive the Communist North Vietnamese regulars and Viet Cong guerrillas from areas they have held since Jan. 31.

The Communists, holding the Citadel's southeast corner, put up a hail of .50-caliber antiaircraft fire at the attacking planes. Cloudy cover lifted to permit the first air attack on the fortress in 10 days.

Two companies of Marines--and 300 to 400 men -- entered the Citadel from landing craft sent up the Perfume River Sunday and another two companies of Leathernecks were taken to the Citadel's northern wall by assault boats today.

The Marines have already recaptured the southern part of Hue in a series of street battles in the old imperial capital since the Communists attacked Hue in the early stages of their big offensive against 35 cities and towns.

Addition of the 400 fresh men swelled the Leatherneck force in Hue to about 1,000 men. AP correspondent George McArthur reported from Hue that the Marines were meeting only occasional sniper fire in the southern part of the city 400 miles north of Saigon.

He said there were indications all North Vietnamese troops had withdrawn from the fighting for the south side.

Southern Senator Admitted Lincoln Fan

WASHINGTON (AP) — At least one Southern Democrat in the Senate will join Republicans today in honoring the birthday anniversary of Abraham Lincoln, GOP patron saint and Civil War president.

Amid preparations for "Lincoln Day" observances around the nation, traditional occasion for speech-making and campaign fund-raising efforts by Republican politicians, Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr., D-Va., said of Lincoln:

"He was one of our great presidents."

Byrd said Northerners shouldn't be surprised that a Southerner such as himself thinks highly of Lincoln, born 159 years ago.

He noted Lincoln's declaration of "malice toward none and charity toward all."

"Had he lived," said the senator in an interview, "the plight of the South would have been much less severe."

Visitors to his Senate office find a portrait of Lincoln in a prominent position on Byrd's desk, emblazoned on the front of his leather-covered appointment book.

"I'm a great admirer of Lincoln," he said. "When I see one like this in a stationery store, I buy it."

One of Byrd's hobbies is history, and much of his reading has been concerned with Lincoln and his time, the senator said.

"What was perhaps our most tragic era-- tragic because of this war which was a fight within the family, so to speak-- produced two of the greatest leaders we have had: Lincoln and Rober E. Lee."

Byrd, a newspaper publisher and former editor, said he admires Lincoln not only as a strong and compassionate leader but also as a literary figure.

"His ability to write with such conciseness impressed me greatly," he said. "So many of his remarks had such common sense to them."

Byrd, whose family has roots deep in Virginia history, said he finds no embarrassment in being an admirer of the Civil War president.

Richmond was the capital of the Confederacy, much of the state was ravaged by the war and the final surrender of Southern forces was at Appomattox Court House, Va.

But, Byrd noted, Lincoln also had roots in Virginia. His father was from the Shenandoah Valley, not far from Byrd's home.

Special Session Half Over

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — With the 60-day special legislative session half over the two houses came back to work today with no great burden of work for the week.

The Senate will be waiting for its appropriations committee to complete its adjusting od House budget figures. The plan is to finish committee work Wednesday and report the bills to the Senate Thursday. That will set the stage for Senate action on the money measure next week.

The Senate Apportionment Committee will meet late Tuesday to consider Sen. Omer H. Avery's version of a congressional redistricting bill. Avery, Troy Democrat, is chairman of the senate committee.

The House has shelved its Redistricting Committee chairman's redistricting bill until the U.S. Supreme Court acts on Missouri's appeal of federal court rejection of the 1967 redistricting law.

Three Heads Injured

Three were admitted to the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community hospital over the weekend.

Treated Sunday were Vera Jones, Bloomfield, fell hitting head; Betty Heacox, Sikeston, hit head on mirror, received small cut on right knee cap; and Robert L. Taylor, Oran, bitten on forehead by rat.

NFO Extends Boycott to Meat

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — The National Farmers Organization extended its month-old grain market boycott to meat Monday, demanding up to six cents per pound more on sales of cattle, hogs and sheep.

"We're prepared to hold whatever time it takes," said Oren Lee Staley, president of the militant farmer organization.

He said NFO members in 35 states would offer contracts only to meat processors "willing to sign and pay the price."

Staley said the goal of the withholding is to boost hog prices from 19 to 23 cents a pound, cattle from 26 to 32 cents and sheep from 23 to 29 cents.

Staley said the meat withholding was timed to coincide with "substantial gains" in the grain market boycott called Jan. 11 but before grain in elevators became short, putting prices out of reach for cattlemen in need of feed.

"We were watching the grain supply in elevators as we had anticipated doing," said Staley. "Now we are ready for a holdout perhaps as long as the 43 days of the 1964 action."

Prices for corn, oats, wheat, rye, soybeans and sorghums has edged upward only pennies since the grain embargo of Jan. 11.

Trade specialists say that in addition to the NFO action factors involved in higher prices include increased exports, a big farmer turnout to join the government's 1968 acreage diversion program, grains held off the market under government loan and the political tension in Southeast Asia.

The result is a cloudy picture of what effect the withholding action has had, if any.

NFO President Oren Lee Staley points to a fresh one-cent hike in corn prices at Chicago as evidence that the flow of corn is beginning to stop. Dealers, however, report neither shortage nor stockpiling.

Staley says farmers can outlast the grain traders as long as grain can be stored under government loan at prices equal to or higher than the market price, a current condition.

But Bob Skinner of the Iowa Grain and Feed Dealers Association thinks the boycott has stalled. "If all farmers would stop selling grain it would affect the market in a hurry," said Skinner. "I don't think we are going to see any effects."

U.S. Rep. Mark Andrews, R-N.D., feels the boycott was ill-timed. "Once the grain is produced, individual holding back doesn't work too well. Generally, the middleman can wait," Andrews told a Missouri farmer meeting last week.

On the Chicago market Friday, No. 2 corn sold for $1.18 a bushel, about five cents more than on Jan. 11. The NFO is holding out for $1.50.

Soybeans traded Friday went for $2.73, seven cents above the Jan. 11 price. The NFO is seeking $3 a bushel. Wheat was near $1.66-- up 36 cents from Jan. 11-- with the NFO asking $2 in its pledge of "no price, no production."

Three Fires Extinguished

Firemen extinguished three fires Sunday.

Oil burning in a container at Sikeston Diesel Repair, 106 Roberts street, sprung a leak and damaged a door in the building. The fire occurred at 1 p.m. Salamander, an oil being burned for heat, temporarily got out of hand, a workman said. Damage was minor.

At 3:55 p.m. Sunday firemen were called to extinguish a grass fire on a vacant lot on Smith avenue.

A car owned by Arthur Kem parked at 609 Taylor street caught fire at 6 p.m. Sunday. The upholstery of the vehicle was damaged.

Police Make Eight Arrests

Police made eight arrests over the weekend. Glenn H. Davis, route four, Poplar Bluff, was charged with running a stop sign; Herbert Reno, Sikeston, was charged with public intoxication; Franklin D. Jones, 304 Sunset, was charged with assault and battery; Bruce Lewis, Matthews, was charged with public intoxication and posted a $12 bond;

Charles C. Parr, East Prairie, was charged with excessive speed, and posted a $24 bond;

James Archie, 225 Alabama, was charged with discharging firearms; West Jackson, 110 Luther, was charged with disturbing the peace; James M. Young, 315 W. Gladys, was charged with driving while intoxicated and of holding an expired driver's license.

Three Teenagers Hurt in Traffic Accident

In a single car accident at 9:40 p.m. Saturday on highway 25, three miles south of Clarkton, a 1967 Volkswagen, driven by Janet Fox, 17, Kennett, failed to make a turn, ran off the road and turned over in an open field, the state patrol reported.

Receiving minor injuries were the driver; Judy White, 16; and Carla Nunley 17, all of Kennett. They were treated at the Dunklin County Memorial hospital in Kennett.

Saturday at 5:25 p.m., one and one-half miles east of Sikeston, Jimmy Roth, 19, Sikeston, said that while driving his 1962 Plymouth, a dog ran in front of his car.

He attempted to miss the animal but struck it, causing his car to overturn. He wasn't injured.

Sunday a single accident, resulted in injury to George McCleod, 37, Hayti, on route P at 3:15 p.m., one mile north of Hayti.

He was a passenger in a 1953 Chevrolet truck, driven by his wife, Ruby McCleod, 37, Hayti.

He was cut on the face when the truck ran off the road into a ditch and was treated at the Pemiscot County Memorial hospital in Hayti.

The driver was given a summons on charges of not having an operator's license and careless and imprudent driving.

Park May Come to U.S. to Sooth Doubts

SEOUL (AP) — South Korean President Chung Hee Park is reported considering a trip to talk with President Johnson if U.S. presidential envoy Cyrus Vance doesn't resolve the U.S.-South Korean rift over Korean security.

Vance and Park met for the first time today. Vance's mission is to quiet South Korean fears that the United States is tending toward appeasement in the Pueblo incident and neglecting the increase in the infiltration of armed North Koreans into the South.

Johnson sent Park a personal letter last Thursday, and Vance was expected to deliver another such letter today. Informed Korean sources said Johnson may have invited Park to Washington and, depending on the results of his talks with Vance, Park may decide to go.

In a move welcome to the South Koreans, the American officers who head the U.N. Command in Korea asked for a meeting with North Korea to air claims of Communist truce violations "in and through the demilitarized zone."

North Korea rejected the command's proposal to meet today, but it was indicated that the Communists proposed meeting Wednesday and that this would be acceptable to the U.N. side.

A U.S. military spokesman said four North Koreans crossed into South Korea around midnight Sunday, but American sentries repelled them in a brief clash. No casualties were reported.

There was speculation that Vance would also meet with North Korean representatives before his scheduled departure Tuesday afternoon. The United States and North Korea have held five secret meetings since the Communists seized the U.S. intelligence-gathering ship Pueblo Jan. 23.

No official reports have come out of the talks, but reliable Korean sources said they believed three injured Pueblo crewmen and the body of one sailor who died would be returned soon.

The secret meetings miffed the South Koreans, traditionally strong allies of the United States, who are more concerned about the security threat raised by the Communist commando raid into Seoul Jan. 21 in an attempt to assassinate President Park.

The commandos failed, but a police chief was killed in a gun battle with them only 800 yards from the presidential mansion. Allied forces later killed 27 of the infiltrators and captured one.

South Korean officials also were expected to ask Vance for return of operational control of their 560,000-man armed forces, now held by American Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel III, the commander of U.N. forces in South Korea.

The South Koreans also have been pressing for more U.S. help in modernizing and expanding their armed forces. President Johnson has asked Congress for $100 million in special military aid to Korea, but Park's government said it was more concerned about fundamental security problems than any one-time appropriation.

Some Korean legislators have suggested withdrawal of the 48,000-man Korean force in Vietnam to meet the crisis at home unless the United States takes what they consider a firmer stand in Korea.

In the United States, the Gallup Poll reported only three people out of every 100 interviewed in a survey feel the nation would use all-out military efforts to get the Pueblo back. It said about 40 per cent think the government should make every effort to get the Pueblo back. It said about 40 per cent think the government should make every effort to get the ship back, including some force if necessary. About 21 per cent favor concentrating on negotiations, it reported.

The poll also said 45 per cent of the people polled think the Korean situation is likely to lead to war while 41 per cent think it can be settled peacefully.

Meat, Butter Stolen at School

BLODGETT -- Thieves broke into the grade school over the weekend, and made off with 78 pounds of meat and 30 pounds of butter used in the school cafeteria.

Entrance was gained by breaking a glass in a back window.

The breakin was discovered by the janitor early today.

Meat stolen was 20 pounds of hamburger, 25 pounds of pork shoulder, 26 pounds bologna, and seven chickens.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

FAIR TRIAL AND FREE PRESS

The House of Delegates of the American Bar Association, meeting in Chicago on Monday (Feb. 19), will decide whether to take up a report of its advisory committee on Fair Trial and Free Press.

THE PRESS AND THE BAR are cautiously edging toward a new accommodation. The First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution provides: "Congress shall make no law. . . abridging the freedom of speech or of the press." The Sixth Amendment says: "In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial."

The reconciliation of those concepts has been a recurring question before the U.S. Supreme Court. At issue may be whether one man's life is placed in jeopardy, or whether another man's speech remains unfettered. The Supreme Court is called on time and again to make that choice.

In the landmark Sheppard case in 1966, the high bench, in an 8 to 1 decision, voiced new concern over sensational trial and pre-trial publicity. And it urged lower courts to exercise their full powers to insulate themselves from outside prejudicial pressures.

NOW THE AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION may take up in Chicago the Reardon Report, prepared by a panel of distinguished judges and lawyers. The committee is headed by Justice Paul C. Reardon of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts. The report recommends that court and police officials withhold from news media "potentially prejudicial" information from the time of arrest of a suspect until his conviction or acquittal.

The revised draft is substantially the same as that discussed at the ABA annual meeting in Honolulu last August. It calls on lawyers, judges, and police officials to restrict their comments on pending criminal cases and to curtail the release of information about them. It also recommends contempt of court action against those who make statements prejudicial to a defendant in a willful attempt to affect the outcome of a trial.

Among several slight changes is one referring to the rights of the defendant. The original provided that a defendant might be interviewed if he so requested. The revision says that the suspect should be adequately informed of his "right to refuse to grant an interview."

Despite the opposition of news media spokesmen at Honolulu and subsequently, the ABA had indicated that it would adopt the recommendations formally at Chicago. A committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors is urging the ABA to defer for at least one year any decision on the Reardon report.

THE BRITISH PRESS lives -- uncomfortably, to be sure -- with even stricter limitations on crime and trial reporting than those proposed by the ABA. But Norman Moss states in The Reporter: "If the proposals of the Advisory Committee on Fair Trial and Free Press are adopted by the House of Delegates and Board of Governors (of the ABA), the managing editor of a Tennessee newspaper has predicted that American crime reporting will soon be pretty much what it is in Britain."

The managing editor of a Philadelphia newspaper is more sanguine and probably more realistic. He says that even if the new code is adopted, "I think our reporters will get the news no matter what restrictions are placed upon their sources, and I think editors will print it, regardless of the consequences."

For a long time now there have been doubts, statements and counter-statements, urgings and arguments, rumors and "definitive" inside reports about Senator Robert Kennedy's attitude on President Johnson's renomination and the Senator's role in the coming campaign.

More and more in recent weeks, dope stories indicated that Bob Kennedy was considering opposing Mr. Johnson, or running against him, or staying neutral.

But on Jan. 19, our columnist Victor Riesel reported that RFK would go all the way with LBJ.

Riesel's column disclosed the specific gatherings and conferences at which Kennedy indicated his political course--a matter of world interest.

Riesel reported the words used by New York's junior senator, and where and when and to whom they were uttered.

Then on Jan. 30--11 days later--Robert Kennedy completely corroborated Victor Riesel's report by stating flatly, despite other political news analyses to the contrary, that he would back Lyndon Johnson for renomination, and of course for reelection.

When Riesel is not right atop the news, he's well ahead of it--whether it's on the labor world, the underworld or the political world.

At the coffee table this morning the 10th district congressional race came up for discussion. Coffee drinkers are Democrats, Republicans and a few Wallacites.

It seemed to us that the unanimous decision for the need of an outstanding candidate had yet to be announced.

They, the coffee drinkers, said why won't Tom Baker run. He could win the race and serve Southeast Missouri with distinction.

Upon returning to the office and opening the mail what should show up but this news item in the Dexter Statesman:

TOM BAKER 'CONSIDERING' RACE
FOR CONGRESS FROM 10TH DISTRICT

A number of persons from throughout Southeast Missouri have been contacting former State Representative Tom Baker of Stoddard County, asking him to run for Congress from the Tenth Congressional District, and Baker said today that he was "seriously considering" entering the race.

Baker, one of Southeast Missouri's best-known businessmen and political leaders, previously served three terms as State Representative from Stoddard County.

He said that he had been contacted by a number of persons, not only in Stoddard County, but from other areas of the Tenth District, and that he was giving the matter "consideration."

Baker is a prominent landowner, farmer and businessman, and built an enviable record as a State Legislator during his three terms in Jefferson City.

So if you think the need is for Tom Baker, write to him at Baker, Missouri 63846 or call him on the phone, area code 314-667-2001 and tell him so.

More than 150 years have passed since Abraham Lincoln's birth in 1809, but with each passing year his image grows brighter, a beacon in the dark of adversity.

It is often instructive to reflect on how history's giants would have dealt with current crises. Some clue to Lincoln's reactions may be found in the words he left behind.

Of all the Lincoln speeches — and there were many — it is generally conceded that the 16th president rose to the greatest oratorical heights with his Gettysburg Address.

So brief that a photographer on hand for the occasion couldn't get his camera adjusted in time and missed the shot, the speech, given at the dedication of the Gettysburg (Pa.) military cemetery nevertheless holds a cherished niche in the archives of great documents.

The timeless quality of Lincoln's words has caused them to take on new meaning with the passing of more than 100 years.

The times have been few when we were not engaged in a struggle "testing whether that nation or any nation . . . can long endure." And isn't it still true that "it is for us, the living . . . to be dedicated . . . to the unfinished work which they who fought . . . have thus far so nobly advanced . . . that these dead shall not have died in vain"?

It is always interesting to speculate on how great men in history would have come to grips with today's problems. Following are some topics of current interest with Lincoln quotes which might apply:

- On Vietnam: "A house divided against itself cannot stand. I believe this government cannot endure permanently half slave and half free."
- On civil rights: "When . . . you have succeeded in dehumanizing the Negro; when you have put him down and made it impossible for him to be but as the beasts of the field: when you have extinguished his soul in this world and placed him where the ray of hope is blown out as in the darkness of the damned, are you quite sure that the demon you have roused will not turn and rend you?"
- On presidential politics: "While the people retain their virtue and vigilance, no administration, by any extreme of wickedness or folly, can very seriously injure the government in the short space of four years."
- On riots: "There is no grievance that is a fit object of redress by mob law."
- On the limits of freedom: "The world has never had a good definition of the word liberty, and the American people, just now, are much in want of one."

In one instance, however, Lincoln has been proved wrong, or perhaps it was modesty that prompted him to say, in the Gettysburg Address, "The world will little note, nor long remember what we say here . . ."

In World War II, when every available solder was needed overseas, the U.S. armed forces, rather grudgingly, began to take in women for stateside duties "to free a man to fight."

There were Army WACs, Navy WAVEs, Coast Guard SPARs and Women Marines.

"The Marine Corps was the last to come around," recalls Col. Ruth Cheney Streeter, USMCWR, the first director of the Women Marines. "I don't think the men liked the idea very much. It took them a while to get used to it."

But get used to it the men did, and as the Women Marines celebrate their 25th birthday Feb. 13, they are very much a part of what has been called "the finest fighting force in the world."

"The main thing we were proud of was that we were called Marines, not given some auxiliary title. That put us very much on our mettle to live up to the great Marine tradition," says Col. Streeter, who served as director from February 1948 to December 1965, and now lives in Morristown, N.J.

Besides the birthday of their founding, Women Marines have two other anniversaries to observe this year:

On June 12 it will be 20 years since they were admitted to regular status in a peacetime Marine Corps, under the Women's Armed Services Integration Act of 1948.

On Aug. 12 it will be 50 years since 305 women, called Mariinettes, served briefly but efficiently in the Corps to replace boy jackets and a daring innocence, and the 2,700 capable Women Marines of today in their chic, forest-green uniforms, who can go from their charm school classes to war-torn Vietnam without turning a well-groomed hair.

In Quantico, Va., where the Marines train their women officers, is the first Marine Corps Grooming Lab, patterned after Pan American World Airways' stewardess school. Pan Am trained 20 Women Marines, who are now serving as instructors for the force.

The grooming lab has pastel walls, soft carpets and special lighting effects that seem a world away from the early Women Marine quarters of World War II: gray walls, concrete "decks" and bare lightbulbs.

It was with this decor that the women hit a peak strength of nearly 19,000. Then the number fell for a couple of years after the war to no more than a hundred volunteer Women Reserves on active duty.

When Congress authorized acceptance of women to the regular Marine Corps in 1948, recruitment began. Today Women Marines are serving both stateside and alongside men of the Corps at duty stations in Okinawa and Japan.

A TAX LOOPHOLE
THAT NEEDS PLUG

The average American taxpayer has to be the most generous soul on earth.

Each pay day, he donates a large chunk of his earnings to the government in the form of a withholding tax. He never sees this money. He is so used to not seeing it that he doesn't even consider it to be his own.

Each April, he submits a formal accounting of his previous year's income in such a manner that, each April, he receives the accolade of the Internal Revenue Service as the best little taxpayer in history.

And rightly so, for he knows that the welfare of the nation depends upon his hundreds of dollars, multiplied by the millions. Because he cares about the welfare of his nation, he is ready and willing to pay a tax on top of his income tax, when and if Congress decrees it.

But our average taxpayer is also a little selfish. It almost appears as if he doesn't want anyone else to help in supporting the country.

He expresses sympathy for the poor fellow with a seven-figure income, who, in theory, is liable for a 90 per cent tax -- even though no one ever pays near that much and there are at least a half-dozen millionaires who pay no taxes whatsoever.

He seems unconcerned, judging by his silence on the matter, that more and more wealthy individuals are avoiding their fair share of income taxes through such strategems as setting up "foundations."

According to Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., whose Small Business subcommittee is investigating this area for the sixth time in 13 years, private foundations and charitable years, private foundations and charitable trusts have proliferated by the thousands.

There is even an organization, Americans Building Constitutionally, which he charges "mass produces" tax - exempt foundations for a fee.

A prime example is a physician in Aurora, Ill., who healed himself quite effectively from the ravages of the IRS by setting up a foundation for "medical research."

The doctor still practices the same as always, but his patients pay their bills to the foundation, which pays the doctor a salary. The doctor's house, car, retirement benefits and insurance also come from the foundation -- tax free. As "assistant medical administrator," the doctor's wife shares in tax-free fringe benefits.

Patman's goal is not to eliminate private philanthropy. The foundations set up by the Carnegie, Ford and Rockefeller fortunes, to name but a few, have been of incalculable benefit to the republic. It is merely to tighten the laws around phony foundations which are nothing but personal tax dodges.

But as long as the aforementioned average taxpayer remains willing to dip ever deeper into his pocket to make up for what is lost through the foundation loophole, and other loopholes, Congress is not going to rush to deprive him of the privilege.

DO YOU LIKE
YOUR FIRST NAME?

Your attitude toward your first name is a measure of your self-esteem, the Catholic Digest finds. Columbia University studies show that persons who answer Yes to the question, "Do you feel your name is you?" tend to think much more highly of themselves than those who do not like their names. Of the 400 subjects of the study, those who disliked their first names were also markedly dissatisfied with themselves.

Many years ago, a powerful king captured a large and wealthy city.

While the burning and looting was still going on, he said to his captured rival, "Do you hear what my soldiers are doing to your city?"

The conquered king replied: "No, they are doing it to YOUR city!"

So clear was the wisdom of that reply that the conquering king ordered the needles destruction to be stopped.

This story applies to any of us who are wasteful of material and supplies at our particular work stations. It applies to all who are careless in the treatment of equipment on which or with which we work. It applies to all who increase costs unnecessarily.

When we do these things, it is our "city" we are "burning and looting." It is our organization which is being weakened-the organization that provides us with a livelihood.

There is conclusive evidence that most thinking people are laying aside party politics, religious denomination, communist fobia and race feelings, if any, and taking a close look at this war and the moves being made at home that could close the trap of an armed dictatorship. At home events are unfolding that could indicate this war was internationally planned over a long period of time as a diversion to hoodwink the people into letting George do it. Latest news indicates some of our top flight preachers of most denominations are having a fresh look. If all the laws now proposed were enacted, our Constitution would be gone. And with it, our freedom, plus the fact we would be disarmed and have armed lawmen present to enforce said laws of the Tompkins Gulf type.

The people have daydreamed until now they have no say in the selection of office-seekers. Like all dictatorships, they can vote the conspiracy election or not vote.

NATIONAL POLICE

The breakdown of law and order in U.S. cities has prompted suggestions that a national police force is needed. One sociologist has urged a garrison in every American city as the only effective means of solving the problem.

Such a proposal is fraught with danger. Preservation of law and order has always been the task of local police forces, controlled by local officials, responsible to the people of the community. A national police force would be controled from Washington, by officials responsible only to the federal bureaucracy.

In these times of increasingly centralized power, such a situation should be avoided at all costs. When Caesar Augustus became dictator of Rome, one of his first acts was to garrison the Praetorian Guard in Rome itself. Civil disturbances were quelled, but at the cost of the Romans' freedom.

The breakdown of law and order in this country could be halted by local police without the use of a national police force, if our local police could operate as law enforcement officers, not as psychologists and sociologists. In times of serious civil disorder policemen are frequently prohibited from using force against law - breakers. Supreme Court decisions prevent them from obtaining the evidence necessary to convict criminals. Parole boards frequently allow law breakers to return to the community within a few months of their convictions. If they were not thus hampered on all sides, local police could deal effectively with the crime problem.

If law and order are to be maintained, without the loss of freedom, we must give our local police every assistance, removing the restrictions which stand in their way. H.L.H.

INSTANT STRIKES:
Wave of Walkouts Ignored, But Cripple Ammo Production -- and Delivery to Vietnam.

Washington, D. C.: -- War or no war, this nation is at that point in its history when a garbage strike whips up more hysteria than stoppages which are crippling speedy production of bombs, vital rifles, small arms ammo, armored vehicles, critical Navy equipment, and artillery parts.

Apparently, American troops will run out of ammunition long before the public runs out of patience.

Or perhaps the public, confused, simply feels no sense of urgency, for, after all, the war is not a transit strike or a street cleaners' holiday.

Obviously, as the TV commedians say, happiness is not a sense of urgency. Nor is it harrowing compassion for men wounded and dying.

Or perhaps it's just that so very few have taken much time to truly explain to so many what's happening.

There seems to be so little urgency or understanding or pressure that Teamsters Local 959 actually struck the RCA-operated Ballistic Missile Early Warning System radar observation site at Clear, Alaska.

The post, about 1100 miles south of the Arctic circle, was put there to give the continental U. S. at least 15 minutes warning that an enemy missile was coming our way.

But what has that to do with wages and fringes? The 157 Teamsters walked out on Christmas Eve and have been on strike ever since. Supervisors now man the post as best they can.

And not too long ago an executive at the Chamberlain Corp.'s (Burlington, N. J.,) 81mm shell plant -- a mighty crucial one -- pleaded with the Pentagon to dispatch one of its eloquent officers to deliver some enlightening speeches at the munitions factory.

"People just aren't enthusiastic about the war effort," the company executive said. "There's no driving desire."

His problem was simple: The Defense Dept. had been screaming for the 81mm shell plant -- a mighty crucial one -- pleaded with the Pentagon to dispatch one of its eloquent officers to deliver some enlightening speeches at the munitions factory.

"People just aren't enthusiastic about the war effort," the company executive said. "There's no driving desire."

His problem was simple: The Defense Dept. had been screaming for the 81mm mortar shells and 105mm cartridge cases which the firm had contracted to deliver. But how can one meet production schedules with absenteeism averaging 25 per cent?

So the Pentagon sent in its brass. But the absenteeism remained steady despite the rising tempers.

But, at least, there has been some delivery. The record has not been quite as good over at Minden, La., where the government has one of its most gargantuan bomb factories. It is a huge complex known as the Louisiana U. S. Army Ammunition Plant.

There are some 20 buildings, in each of which considerable different munitions are whipped out -- usually. At normal times the shells just lie out there in long and seemingly endless rows.

But when the International Chemical Workers Union's contract opened up, there were disagreements over lots of issues. The union struck on January 24. The Machinists have thousands of members in that installation. They did not walk out.

But the 3,600 chemical workers decided to cripple the lines in other buildings there. Despite desperate pressure from the Pentagon and patient reasoning by Federal Mediation Service chief William Simkin, a Solomon-like man, the strikers are still out at this writing.

And so it has gone now for many months in all parts of the land. Mostly the strikes are small -- involving anywhere from 350 to 1,600 employes. But that is the nature of our defense production today. Tens of thousands of small plants, all gridded together into one fantastic network of supply channels leaking to big central depots.

Some of these small plants, for example, supply small parts for the Cadillac Gage Co. plant, on which the Pentagon depends for much of the military's armored vehicles. There the stoppage came when the firm disciplined a United Auto Workers shop steward.

Or there is the Maremont Corp. in Saco, Maine. There, members of the Textile Workers Union of America struck for higher wages. They shut down the plant for a week--though it's the only source of the M60 machine gune.

But because most of the struck plants are small, the stoppages go virtually unnoticed.

Even when the munitions end the guns, tanks, and more secret weapons are finally produced and loaded aboard railroad cars for a fast run to California ports, and the rails are hit by a strike, few seem to care.

Thus the military recently found itself boxed in by the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen strike. They had 22 heavily laden ammunition cars ready to move out of Defense, Texas, to Texarkana and then to California. Supervisors were rushed in. They moved the train.

But other loads were slowed.

It happens every day. There rarely is a moment when the Pentagon isn't anguished over 10 or 12 strikes at plants which are the sole producers of some vital ammunition or weapon which are the concern of the day over there. So, one ought to decide if this war is a war and then get the AFL-CIO's national leadership to set up a council so that it is all explained to strike - happy locals below.

If there is no urgency, what's all the shooting -- and shouting-- about)

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:

North Koreans plan suicide attack on U.S. Embassy in Seoul; guerrilla warfare in South Korea is planned; U.S. fights under Marquis of Queensbury rules.

(Editors' note: Jack Anderson, Drew Pearson's associate, is now in Korea, covering the crisis in the Far East.)

SEOUL - Somewhat in the mountains of North Korea, a suicide squad is training for a commando attack on the American Embassy here. The aim is to repeat in Seoul what happened in Saigon, thus heaping more humiliation upon the United States.

The planned assault, according to South Korean sources whose knowledge of the north has proved to be disturbingly accurate, is part of an intensified guerrilla campaign which the communists hope to mount against South Korea this year.

More than 22,000 agents are reported to be receiving guerilla instruction in the north. The elite are the commandos, trained to be fanatical killers. An estimated 2,400 are now going through the rugged commando course at secret bases scattered throughout North Korea.

How many will be used in the attempt on the U.S. Embassy probably hasn't been decided. The 31-man squad that attempted to assassinate South Korea's President Chung Hee Park originally had intended to hit the American Embassy and kill Ambassador William Porter.

A U.S. intelligence report on the incident, made available to this column, states tersely: "These raiders has been trained for two years and given intensive instruction during the last few weeks. Initially the leaders were given five targets, including the American Ambassador and the American Embassy. At almost the last moment Kim Il Sung (the North Korean dictator) decided the raiders were too small in number to execute all five targets, and he settled for President Park and the Blue House (the Presidential Mansion)."

UNSCRUPULOUS ENEMY

A South Korean officer, who helped to break up the assassination plot, said the communist commandos scampered up and down mountains "like rabbits." Although a woodcutter spotted them and spread the alarm, they moved so swiftly that they penetrated beyond the search area before patrols arrived. The commandos who were later gunned down, he said, had feet hard as show leather.

The assassination squad infiltrated into South Korea through the sector guarded by the U.S. second division. This is a rugged mountainous stretch, covered with brown brush, white birch, pine trees and patches of snow. The ground has been frozen hard by temperatures that remain below freezing, and at night often plunge below zero.

The Americans guard only 18 miles of the 151-mile demarcation line, but their small sector has become a favorite infiltration route for the North Koreans. Of the 591 confirmed infiltrators reported along the DMZ last year, 337 tried to come through the U.S. sector.

The GIs killed only 11 and captured two. In contrast, the South Koreans killed or captured 109 of the 254 agents who probed their positions.

This doesn't mean the Americans are poorer soldiers. Many are battle-tested veterans of Vietnam, who leave their bunkers at night to lie on the frozen ground in the paths the infiltrators might take.

But Washington insists that our troops fight by Marquis of Queensbury rules against an unscrupulous enemy who violates the armistice terms almost nightly. The armistice, for example, forbids the laying of new mines. However, the North Koreans sneak into the U.S. sector at night and plant mines on the jeep trails and pathways used by the GIs. Despite this, the Americans still scrupulously refrain from planting mines.

TOUGH SOUTH KOREANS

The South Koreans, less finicky about the truce terms, take whatever means are expedient to waylay infiltrators and terrorists. The tough, disciplined South Koreans are handicapped only by an appalling lack of modern equipment.

Most North Korean guerrillas are smuggled into the south by boat along the rugged southwestern coastline. Its coaves and inlets offer many hiding places for the infiltrators, who sneak ashore one or two at a time, bury their arms, then wait to rendezvous with others.

Yet only one-third of the spotter stations manned by the police have telephones to sound an alarm. The 40,000 anti-guerrilla police are equipped with antiquated carbines, no match for the automatic, Soviet-made weapons that the guerrillas carry. In fact, 17,000 of the carbines are unserviceable and are carried merely for show.

The police are so short of transportation that one unit was obliged to rent a bus late last year to chase a band of infiltrators. The bus finally stalled on a steep incline, and the police were compelled to walk.

To patrol the coast they use 72 slow fishing boats, which the South Korean navy has seized from Japanese fishermen encroaching on South Korean fishing fields. South Korean fighters desperately need modern weapons, helicopters, searchlights, signal equipment and other supplies.

But a niggardly Uncle Sam, who is pouring billions into Vietnam to fight a guerrilla war, has been unwilling to spend a few dollars in Korea to stop a guerrilla war.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

FAIR TRIAL AND FREE PRESS

The House of Delegates of the American Bar Association, meeting in Chicago on Monday (Feb. 19), will decide whether to take up a report of its advisory committee on Fair Trial and Free Press.

THE PRESS AND THE BAR are cautiously edging toward a new accommodation. The First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution provides: "Congress shall make no law. . . abridging the freedom of speech or of the press." The Sixth Amendment says: "In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial."

The reconciliation of those concepts has been a recurring question before the U.S. Supreme Court. At issue may be whether one man's life is placed in jeopardy, or whether another man's speech remains unfettered. The Supreme Court is called on time and again to make that choice.

In the landmark Sheppard case in 1966, the high bench, in an 8 to 1 decision, voiced new concern over sensational trial and pre-trial publicity. And it urged lower courts to exercise their full powers to insulate themselves from outside prejudicial pressures.

NOW THE AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION may take up in Chicago the Reardon Report, prepared by a panel of distinguished judges and lawyers. The committee is headed by Justice Paul C. Reardon of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts. The report recommends that court and police officials withhold from news media "potentially prejudicial" information from the time of arrest of a suspect until his conviction or acquittal.

The revised draft is substantially the same as that discussed at the ABA annual meeting in Honolulu last August. It calls on lawyers, judges, and police officials to restrict their comments on pending criminal cases and to curtail the release of information about them. It also recommends contempt of court action against those who make statements prejudicial to a defendant in a willful attempt to affect the outcome of a trial.

Among several slight changes is one referring to the rights of the defendant. The original provided that a defendant might be interviewed if he so requested. The revision says that the suspect should be adequately informed of his "right to refuse to grant an interview."

Despite the opposition of news media spokesmen at Honolulu and subsequently, the ABA had indicated that it would adopt the recommendations formally at Chicago. A committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors is urging the ABA to defer for at least one year any decision on the Reardon report.

THE BRITISH PRESS lives -- uncomfortably, to be sure -- with even stricter limitations on crime and trial reporting than those proposed by the ABA. But Norman Moss states in The Reporter: "If the proposals of the Advisory Committee on Fair Trial and Free Press are adopted by the House of Delegates and Board of Governors (of the ABA), the managing editor of a Tennessee newspaper has predicted that American crime reporting will soon be pretty much what it is in Britain."

The managing editor of a Philadelphia newspaper is more sanguine and probably more realistic. He says that even if the new code is adopted, "I think our reporters will get the news no matter what restrictions are placed upon their sources, and I think editors will print it, regardless of the consequences."

For a long time now there have been doubts, statements and counter-statements, urgings and arguments, rumors and "definitive" inside reports about Senator Robert Kennedy's attitude on President Johnson's renomination and the Senator's role in the coming campaign.

More and more in recent weeks, dope stories indicated that Bob Kennedy was considering opposing Mr. Johnson, or running against him, or staying neutral.

But on Jan. 19, our columnist Victor Riesel reported that RFK would go all the way with LBJ.

Riesel's column disclosed the specific gatherings and conferences at which Kennedy indicated his political course--a matter of world interest.

Riesel reported the words used by New York's junior senator, and where and when and to whom they were uttered.

Then on Jan. 30--11 days later--Robert Kennedy completely corroborated Victor Riesel's report by stating flatly, despite other political news analyses to the contrary, that he would back Lyndon Johnson for renomination, and of course for reelection.

When Riesel is not right atop the news, he's well ahead of it--whether it's on the labor world, the underworld or the political world.

At the coffee table this morning the 10th district congressional race came up for discussion. Coffee drinkers are Democrats, Republicans and a few Wallacites.

It seemed to us that the unanimous decision for the need of an outstanding candidate had yet to be announced.

They, the coffee drinkers, said why won't Tom Baker run. He could win the race and serve Southeast Missouri with distinction.

Upon returning to the office and opening the mail what should show up but this news item in the Dexter Statesman:

TOM BAKER 'CONSIDERING' RACE FOR CONGRESS FROM 10TH DISTRICT

A number of persons from throughout Southeast Missouri have been contacting former State Representative Tom Baker of Stoddard County, asking him to run for Congress from the Tenth Congressional District, and Baker said today that he was "seriously considering" entering the race.

Baker, one of Southeast Missouri's best-known businessmen and political leaders, previously served three terms as State Representative from Stoddard County.

He said that he had been contacted by a number of persons, not only in Stoddard County, but from other areas of the Tenth District, and that he was giving the matter "consideration."

Baker is a prominent landowner, farmer and businessman, and built an enviable record as a State Legislator during his three terms in Jefferson City.

So if you think the need is for Tom Baker, write to him at Baker, Missouri 63846 or call him on the phone, area code 314-667-2001 and tell him so.

Maybe he will listen to the voice of the multitudes.

More than 150 years have passed since Abraham Lincoln's birth in 1809, but with each passing year his image grows brighter, a beacon in the dark of adversity.

It is often instructive to reflect on how history's giants would have dealt with current crises. Some clue to Lincoln's reactions may be found in the words he left behind.

Of all the Lincoln speeches — and there were many — it is generally conceded that the 16th president rose to the greatest oratorical heights with his Gettysburg Address.

So brief that a photographer on hand for the occasion couldn't get his camera adjusted in time and missed the shot, the speech, given at the dedication of the Gettysburg (Pa.) military cemetery nevertheless holds a cherished niche in the archives of great documents.

The timeless quality of Lincoln's words has caused them to take on new meaning with the passing of more than 100 years.

The times have been few when we were not engaged in a struggle "testing whether that nation or any nation . . . can long endure." And isn't it still true that "it is for us, the living . . . to be dedicated . . . to the unfinished work which they who fought . . . have thus far so nobly advanced . . . that these dead shall not have died in vain"?

It is always interesting to speculate on how great men in history would have come to grips with today's problems. Following are some topics of current interest with Lincoln quotes which might apply:

- On Vietnam: "A house divided against itself cannot stand. I believe this government cannot endure permanently half slave and half free."
- On civil rights: "When . . . you have succeeded in dehumanizing the Negro; when you have put him down and made it impossible for him to be but as the beasts of the field; when you have extinguished his soul in this world and placed him where the ray of hope is blown out as in the darkness of the damned, are you quite sure that the demon you have roused will not turn and rend you?"
- On presidential politics: "While the people retain their virtue and vigilance, no administration, by any extreme of wickedness or folly, can very seriously injure the government in the short space of four years."
- On riots: "There is no grievance that is a fit object of redress by mob law."
- On the limits of freedom: "The world has never had a good definition of the word liberty, and the American people, just now, are much in want of one."

In one instance, however, Lincoln has been proved wrong, or perhaps it was modesty that prompted him to say, in the Gettysburg Address, "The world will little note, nor long remember what we say here . . ."

He expresses sympathy for the poor fellow with a seven-figure income, who, in theory, is liable for a 90 per cent tax -- even though no one ever pays near that much and there are at least a half-dozen millionaires who pay no taxes whatsoever.

He seems unconcerned, judging by his silence on the matter, that more and more wealthy individuals are avoiding their fair share of income taxes through such strategems as setting up "foundations."

According to Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., whose Small Business subcommittee is investigating this area for the sixth time in 13 years, private foundations and charitable years, private foundations and charitable trusts have proliferated by the thousands.

There is even an organization, Americans Building Constitutionally, which he charges "mass produces" tax - exempt foundations for a fee.

A prime example is a physician in Aurora, Ill., who healed himself quite effectively from the ravages of the IRS by setting up a foundation for "medical research."

The doctor still practices the same as always, but his patients pay their bills to the foundation, which pays the doctor a salary. The doctor's house, car, retirement benefits and insurance also come from the foundation -- tax free. As "assistant medical administrator," the doctor's wife shares in tax-free fringe benefits.

Patman's goal is not to eliminate private philanthropy. The foundations set up by the Carnegie, Ford and Rockefeller fortunes, to name but a few, have been of incalculable benefit to the republic. It is merely to tighten the laws around phony foundations which are nothing but personal tax dodges.

But as long as the aforementioned average taxpayer remains willing to dip ever deeper into his pocket to make up for what is lost through the foundation loophole, and other loopholes, Congress is not going to rush to deprive him of the privilege.

DO YOU LIKE YOUR FIRST NAME?

Your attitude toward your first name is a measure of your self-esteem, the Catholic Digest finds. Columbia University studies show that persons who answer Yes to the question, "Do you feel your name is you?" tend to think much more highly of themselves than those who do not like their names. Of the 400 subjects of the study, those who disliked their first names were also markedly dissatisfied with themselves.

A CUSTOMER'S DILEMMA

Dear paper carrier,
So timid and meek.
We really don't want
To play hide and seek.

You taught us the game
In a day to day caper,
Just searching for
The evening paper.

Your right arm is good,
We've positive proof.
Each time our paper
Lands on the roof.

And surely you know,
We're understandably miffed,
When the late news lies buried
Beneath a snow drift.

On breezier days
If it's not tied or pinned,
Our evening paper
Is gone with the wind.

Let's make a bargain
Here's what we'll do:
We'll let you find us,
If you'll let us find you.

Many years ago, a powerful king captured a large and wealthy city.

While the burning and looting was still going on, he said to his captured rival, "Do you hear what my soldiers are doing to your city?"

The conquered king replied: "No, they are doing it to YOUR city!"

So clear was the wisdom of that reply that the conquering king ordered the needles destruction to be stopped.

This story applies to any of us who are wasteful of material and supplies at our particular work stations. It applies to all who are careless in the treatment of equipment on which or with which we work. It applies to all who increase costs unnecessarily.

When we do these things, it is our "city" we are "burning and looting." It is our organization which is being weakened-the organization that provides us with a livelihood.

From all accounts the question of whether there will be a tax increase is academic. The question really is, "How much?"

Doc. Duncan Says

There is conclusive evidence that most thinking people are laying aside party politics, religious denomination, communist fobia and race feelings, if any, and taking a close look at this war and the moves being made at home that could close the trap of an armed dictatorship. At home events are unfolding that could indicate this war was internationally planned over a long period of time as a diversion to hoodwink the people into letting George do it. Latest news indicates some of our top flight preachers of most denominations are having a fresh look. If all the laws now proposed were enacted, our Constitution would be gone. And with it, our freedom, plus the fact we would be disarmed and have armed lawmen present to enforce said laws of the Tompkins Gulf type.

The people have daydreamed until now they have no say in the selection of office-seekers. Like all dictatorships, they can vote the conspiracy election or not vote.

H.L. Hunt Says

NATIONAL POLICE

The breakdown of law and order in U.S. cities has prompted suggestions that a national police force is needed. One sociologist has urged a garrison in every American city as the only effective means of solving the problem.

Such a proposal is fraught with danger. Preservation of law and order has always been the task of local police forces, controlled by local officials, responsible to the people of the community. A national police force would be controled from Washington, by officials responsible only to the federal bureaucracy.

In these times of increasingly centralized power, such a situation should be avoided at all costs. When Caesar Augustus became dictator of Rome, one of his first acts was to garrison the Praetorian Guard in Rome itself. Civil disturbances were quelled, but at the cost of the Romans' freedom.

The breakdown of law and order in this country could be halted by local police without the use of a national police force, if our local police could operate as law enforcement officers, not as psychologists and sociologists. In times of serious civil disorder policemen are frequently prohibited from using force against law - breakers. Supreme Court decisions prevent them from obtaining the evidence necessary to convict criminals. Parole boards frequently allow law breakers to return to the community within a few months of their convictions. If they were not thus hampered on all sides, local police could deal effectively with the crime problem.

If law and order are to be maintained, without the loss of freedom, we must give our local police every assistance, removing the restrictions which stand in their way. H.L.H.

INSTANT STRIKES:

Wave of Walkouts Ignored, But Cripple Ammo Production -- and Delivery to Vietnam.

Washington, D. C.: -- War or no war, this nation is at that point in its history when a garbage strike whips up more hysteria than stoppages which are crippling speedy production of bombs, vital rifles, small arms ammo, armored vehicles, critical Navy equipment, and artillery parts.

Apparently, American troops will run out of ammunition long before the public runs out of patience.

Or perhaps the public, confused, simply feels no sense of urgency, for, after all, the war is not a transit strike or a street cleaners' holiday.

Obviously, as the TV commedians say, happiness is not a sense of urgency. Nor is it harrowing compassion for men wounded and dying.

Or perhaps it's just that so very few have taken much time to truly explain to so many what's happening.

There seems to be so little urgency or understanding or pressure that Teamsters Local 959 actually struck the RCA-operated Ballistic Missile Early Warning System radar observation site at Clear, Alaska.

The post, about 1100 miles south of the Arctic circle, was put there to give the continental U. S. at least 15 minutes warning that an enemy missile was coming our way.

But what has that to do with wages and fringes? The 157 Teamsters walked out on Christmas Eve and have been on strike ever since. Supervisors now man the post as best they can.

And not too long ago an executive at the Chamberlain Corp.'s (Burlington, N. J.,) 81mm shell plant -- a mighty crucial one -- pleaded with the Pentagon to dispatch one of its eloquent officers to deliver some enlightening speeches at the munitions factory.

"People just aren't enthusiastic about the war effort," the company executive said. "There's no driving desire."

His problem was simple: The Defense Dept. had been screaming for the 81mm shell plant -- a mighty crucial one -- pleaded with the Pentagon to dispatch one of its eloquent officers to deliver some enlightening speeches at the munitions factory.

"People just aren't enthusiastic about the war effort," the company executive said. "There's no driving desire."

His problem was simple: The Defense Dept. had been screaming for the 81mm mortar shells and 105mm cartridge cases which the firm had contracted to deliver. But how can one meet production schedules with absenteeism averaging 25 per cent?

So the Pentagon sent in its brass. But the absenteeism remained steady despite the rising tempers.

But, at least, there has been some delivery. The record has not been quite as good over at Minden, La., where the government has one of its most gargantuan bomb factories. It is a huge complex known as the Louisiana U. S. Army Ammunition Plant.

There are some 20 buildings, in each of which considerable different munitions are whipped out -- usually. At normal times the shells just lie out there in long and seemingly endless rows.

But when the International Chemical Workers Union's contract opened up, there were disagreements over lots of issues. The union struck on January 24. The Machinists have thousands of members in that installation. They did not walk out.

But the 3,600 chemical workers decided to cripple the lines in other buildings there. Despite desperate pressure from the Pentagon and patient reasoning by Federal Mediation Service chief William Simkin, a Solomon-like man, the strikers are still out at this writing.

And so it has gone now for many months in all parts of the land. Mostly the strikes are small -- involving anywhere from 350 to 1,600 employes. But that is the nature of our defense production today. Tens of thousands of small plants, all gridded together into one fantastic network of supply channels leaking to big central depots.

Some of these small plants, for example, supply small parts for the Cadillac Gage Co. plant, on which the Pentagon depends for much of the military's armored vehicles. There the stoppage came when the firm disciplined a United Auto Workers shop steward.

Or there is the Maremont Corp. in Saco, Maine. There, members of the Textile Workers Union of America struck for higher wages. They shut down the plant for a week--though it's the only source of the M60 machine gune.

But because most of the struck plants are small, the stoppages go virtually unnoticed.

Even when the munitions end the guns, tanks, and more secret weapons are finally produced and loaded aboard railroad cars for a fast run to California ports, and the rails are hit by a strike, few seem to care.

Thus the military recently found itself boxed in by the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen strike. They had 22 heavily laden ammunition cars ready to move out of Defense, Texas, to Texarkana and then to California. Supervisors were rushed in. They moved the train.

But other loads were slowed.

It happens every day. There rarely is a moment when the Pentagon isn't anguished over 10 or 12 strikes at plants which are the sole producers of some vital ammunition or weapon which are the concern of the day over there.

So, one ought to decide if this war is a war and then get the AFL-CIO's national leadership to set up a council so that it is all explained to strike - happy locals below.

If there is no urgency, what's all the shooting -- and shouting-- about)

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:

North Koreans plan suicide attack on U.S. Embassy in Seoul; guerrilla warfare in South Korea is planned; U.S. fights under Marquis of Queensbury rules.

(Editors' note: Jack Anderson, Drew Pearson's associate, is now in Korea, covering the crisis in the Far East.)

SEOUL - Somewhat in the mountains of North Korea, a suicide squad is training for a commando attack on the American Embassy here. The aim is to repeat in Seoul what happened in Saigon, thus heaping more humiliation upon the United States.

The planned assault, according to South Korean sources whose knowledge of the north has proved to be disturbingly accurate, is part of an intensified guerrilla campaign which the communists hope to mount against South Korea this year.

More than 22,000 agents are reported to be receiving guerilla instruction in the north. The elite are the commandos, trained to be fanatical killers. An estimated 2,400 are now going through the rugged commando course at secret bases scattered throughout North Korea.

How many will be used in the attempt on the U.S. Embassy probably hasn't been decided. The 31-man squad that attempted to assassinate South Korea's President Chung Hee Park originally had intended to hit the American Embassy and kill Ambassador William Porter.

A U.S. intelligence report on the incident, made available to this column, states tersely: "These raiders has been trained for two years and given intensive instruction during the last few weeks. Initially the leaders were given five targets, including the American Ambassador and the American Embassy. At almost the last moment Kim Il Sung (the North Korean dictator) decided the raiders were too small in number to execute all five targets, and he settled for President Park and the Blue House (the Presidential Mansion)."

UNSCRUPULOUS ENEMY

A South Korean officer, who helped to break up the assassination plot, said the communist commandos scampered up and down mountains "like rabbits." Although a woodcutter spotted them and spread the alarm, they moved so swiftly that they penetrated beyond the search area before patrols arrived. The commandos who were later gunned down, he said, had feet hard as show leather.

The assassination squad infiltrated into South Korea through the sector guarded by the U.S. second division. This is a rugged mountainous stretch, covered with brown brush, white birch, pine trees and patches of snow. The ground has been frozen hard by temperatures that remain below freezing, and at night often plunge below zero.

The Americans guard only 18 miles of the 151-mile demarcation line, but their small sector has become a favorite infiltration route for the North Koreans. Of the 591 confirmed infiltrators reported along the DMZ last year, 337 tried to come through the U.S. sector.

The GIs killed only 11 and captured two. In contrast, the South Koreans killed or captured 109 of the 254 agents who probed their positions.

This doesn't mean the Americans are poorer soldiers. Many are battle-tested veterans of Vietnam, who leave their bunkers at night to lie on the frozen ground in the paths the infiltrators might take.

But Washington insists that our troops fight by Marquis of Queensbury rules against an unscrupulous enemy who violates the armistice terms almost nightly. The armistice, for example, forbids the laying of new mines. However, the North Koreans sneak into the U.S. sector at night and plant mines on the jeep trails and pathways used by the GIs. Despite this, the Americans still scrupulously refrain from planting mines.

TOUGH SOUTH KOREANS

The South Koreans, less finicky about the truce terms, take whatever means are expedient to waylay infiltrators and terrorists. The tough, disciplined South Koreans are handicapped only by an appalling lack of modern equipment.

Most North Korean guerrillas are smuggled into the south by boat along the rugged southwestern coastline. Its coaves and inlets offer many hiding places for the infiltrators, who sneak ashore one or two at a time, bury their arms, then wait to rendezvous with others.

Yet only one-third of the spotter stations manned by the police have telephones to sound an alarm. The 40,000 anti-guerrilla police are equipped with antiquated carbines, no match for the automatic, Soviet-made weapons that the guerrillas carry. In fact, 17,000 of the carbines are unserviceable and are carried merely for show.

The police are so short of transportation that one unit was obliged to rent a bus late last year to chase a band of infiltrators. The bus finally stalled on a steep incline, and the police were compelled to walk.

To patrol the coast they use 72 slow fishing boats, which the South Korean navy has seized from Japanese fishermen encroaching on South Korean fishing fields. South Korean fighters desperately need modern weapons, helicopters, searchlights, signal equipment and other supplies.

But a niggardly Uncle Sam, who is pouring billions into Vietnam to fight a guerrilla war, has been unwilling to spend a few dollars in Korea to stop a guerrilla war.

In World War II, when every available solder was needed overseas, the U.S. armed forces, rather grudgingly, began to take in women for stateside duties "to free a man to fight."

There were Army WACs, Navy WAVEs, Coast Guard SPARs and Women Marines.

"The Marine Corps was the last to come around," recalls Col. Ruth Cheney Streeter, USMCWR, the first director of the Women Marines. "I don't think the men liked the idea very much. It took them a while to get used to it."

But get used to it the men did, and as the Women Marines celebrate their 25th birthday Feb. 13, they are very much a part of what has been called "the finest fighting force in the world."

"The main thing we were proud of was that we were called Marines, not given some auxiliary title. That put us very much on our mettle to live up to the great Marine tradition," says Col. Streeter, who served as director from February 1948 to December 1965, and now lives in Morristown, N.J.

Besides the birthday of their founding, Women Marines have two other anniversaries to observe this year:

On June 12 it will be 20 years since they were admitted to regular status in a peacetime Marine Corps, under the Women's Armed Services Integration Act of 1948.

On Aug. 12 it will be 50 years since 305 women, called Marinettes, served briefly but efficiently in the Corps to replace boy jackets and a daring innocence, and the 2,700 capable Women Marines of today in their chic, forest-green uniforms, who can go from their charm school classes to war-torn Vietnam without turning a well-groomed hair.

In Quantico, Va., where the Marines train their women officers, is the first Marine Corps Grooming Lab, patterned after Pan American World Airways' stewardess school. Pan Am trained 20 Women Marines, who are now serving as instructors for the force.

The grooming lab has pastel walls, soft carpets and special lighting effects that seem a world away from the early Women Marine quarters of World War II: gray walls, concrete "decks" and bare lightbulbs.

It was with this decor that the women hit a peak strength of nearly 19,000. Then the number fell for a couple of years after the war to no more than a hundred volunteer Women Reserves on active duty.

When Congress authorized acceptance of women to the regular Marine Corps in 1948, recruitment began. Today Women Marines are serving both stateside and alongside men of the Corps at duty stations in Okinawa and Japan.

Brenda Emerson Bride Of Robert Schwepker

ORAN -- The Hooe Missionary Baptist church was the setting Jan. 20 for the wedding of Miss Brenda Emerson and Robert Schwepker.

The former Miss Emerson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Emerson Jr., Oran, and Schwepker is the son of Mrs. Dorothy Johnson of Delta.

The Rev. Robert Williamson performed the double ring ceremony before an arrangement of white gladioli and an arched brass candelabra holding white tapers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace and taffeta. The fitted taffeta dress was overlaid with a cage of lace. The gown was styled with long tapered sleeves that came to lily points at the wrists. Her chapel-length train was scalloped at the edges.

A seed pearl crown secured a fingertip veil of silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of white roses with ribbons tied in lovers' knots.

Mrs. Virginia Pobst, route four, Sikeston, was her sister's matron of honor. Her floor-length gown was fashioned of green chiffon over green satin. Her headpiece was green net over green satin. Mrs. Pobst carried a bouquet of white roses tipped in green.

Miss Glenda Emerson, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Sharon Pirtle were bridesmaids. They wore gowns and headpieces identical to that of the matron of honor. They carried white roses tipped in green.

Miss Elizabeth Post, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a white floor-length dress of satin and lace. Her headpiece was white net over white satin. She carried a white straw basket filled with white roses.

Candlelighters were Cheryl and Linda Kay Emerson, sisters of the bride. They wore floor-length dresses of green chiffon and satin and wrist corsages of white roses.

Miss Lyn Randall, pianist, provided prenuptial music and accompanied Miss Linda Jones, who sang "The Hawaiian Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Larry Schwepker, cousin of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Glenn Davis and Jim Hanks. Ushers were J. R. Emerson and Bradley Emerson, brothers of the bride. Ringbearer was Scott Bumgardner, cousin of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Emerson wore a two piece suit of beige knit complemented with matching accessories.

Mrs. Johnson wore a blue and white dress with matching accessories. Both mothers wore white carnation corsages.

A reception was held in the church dining room. The bride's table was decorated in green and white. A three tiered white wedding cake decorated with green and yellow centered the table. Punch bowls appointed each side of the cake. Mrs. Juanita Isaacs and Mrs. Anita Freed, aunts of the bride, served.

Miss Sharon Chapman was in charge of the guest book.

After a wedding trip, the couple is living in Oran.

Mary Sharen McVay Pledges Vows With Warren L. Howard

DILLON, Ill. -- Miss Sharen McVay, Perkin, Ill., and Warren LaVerne Howard, Pekin, were married at 2 p.m. Feb. 4 in the Mennonite church.

The Rev. Jarrel E. Huffman, pastor of the Moline, Ill., Baptist church, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. McVay, 1610 East Kathleen, Sikeston, Mo. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Howard, route two, Pekin.

The church was decorated with two altar baskets of white gladioli and yellow roses.

Richard Chism of Pekin, cousin of the bride, was soloist. He was accompanied by organist Sandra Metcalf.

Given in marriage by her uncle, William Dolan Chism of South Pekin, the bride wore a floor-length A-line wedding gown. The bodice was fashioned with long sleeves that came to points over the hands. The gown and chapel - length train were silk, accented with lace flowers. A crown of pearls and sequins secured a waist - length illusion veil.

The former Miss McVay carried a circle of white carnations tied with white ribbon.

Maid of honor was Miss Melissia McVay of Sikeston, the bride's sister. Miss Elizabeth Howard of Pekin, the groom's sister, was bridesmaid. The attendants wore floor-length A-line silk gowns. The empire bodices featured transparent sleeves and tiny pastel flowers. They wore shoulder - length veils encircling large silk bows. The maid of honor's gown was yellow and the bridesmaid's green.

The groom's brother, Johnny Howard of Pekin, was best man. Groomsman was Duane Howard of Pekin, the groom's brother. Ushers were Dick Young of Green Valley, Ill., cousin of the bride, and Carlisle Burden of Pekin, the groom's brother-in-law.

A reception was held in the church basement. The bride's table was centered with a three tiered chocolate wedding cake decorated in yellow and white sugar bells. The cake was topped with a miniature bridal couple. Serving were Mrs. Delsie Sexton, Mrs. Dorothy Bryant and Mrs. Ellen Burden, the groom's sister.

Assisting the couple with gifts were Mrs. Kathy Moore, Joyce Bryant, Cindy and Sharon Ackerman, all of Pekin.

The couple left for a wedding trip to New Orleans for the Mardi Gras. They will be home in apartment no. 1, 1104 South 10th, Pekin, March 1.

Mrs. Howard was a secretary for Kriegsman Transfer Company in Pekin before her marriage. Her husband is a carpenter for Stuber Bros. Construction Company, Tremont, Ill.

Henry Meldrum Unit 114, American Legion Auxiliary, met Thursday at 7:30 p.m. with Mrs. C. E. Felker. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Felker, with Mrs. Marshall Myers leading in prayer.

Four officers answered roll call.

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were accepted as read. Child welfare chairman, Mrs. Fred Tope Jr., reported that clothing valued over $100 had been donated to the unit and distributed to three families. She also reported that another family she had been assisting had been given groceries and other articles.

Several members reportedly were ill and cards and flowers have been sent where there has been a death in the family.

A letter from the Business and Professional Women's club was read. They invited the unit to participate in the woman of the year program. The banquet will be on March 14 at the American Legion hall. The unit voted to enter a candidate to vie for woman of the year.

A report on the 14th district meeting Feb. 4 in Cape Girardeau was given. Guests at the district meeting were Mrs. Leslie Wrinkle department first vice president, Mrs. Herman Baum, department second vice president, Mrs. John Fay, 13th district president; Mrs. Harry Goddard, wife of the state commander of American Legion; Mrs. Herbert Marshall, Miss Kathy Marshall and Mrs. Rod Comstock, all of Charleston. The latter three gave a musical program.

Eleven units of the District were present and represented by 57 members. Chairmen gave reports. Mrs. Wrinkle spoke on "The Challenge of 68". Fourteenth District is in seventh place in the department in membership. Jackson unit won the prize for having the most members present.

Two units received $1 each for having members who had gotten "8 for 68" in membership. They were Charleston and Poplar Bluff. Mrs. R. A. Crawford, chaplain of 14th District, distributed prayer books she had compiled. She asked that each one send her her favorite prayer to be compiled in book form to send to department convention.

She lead in a prayer for peace and the meeting was closed by the president, Miss Gladys Finley.

Mrs. Felker served cake and coffee during a social hour.

Brenda Emerson Bride Of Robert Schwepker

ORAN -- The Hooe Missionary Baptist church was the setting Jan. 20 for the wedding of Miss Brenda Emerson and Robert Schwepker.

The former Miss Emerson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Emerson Jr., Oran, and Schwepker is the son of Mrs. Dorothy Johnson of Delta.

The Rev. Robert Williamson performed the double ring ceremony before an arrangement of white gladioli and an arched brass candelabra holding white tapers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace and taffeta. The fitted taffeta dress was overlaid with a cage of lace. The gown was styled with long tapered sleeves that came to lily points at the wrists. Her chapel-length train was scalloped at the edges.

A seed pearl crown secured a fingertip veil of silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of white roses with ribbons tied in lovers' knots.

Mrs. Virginia Pobst, route four, Sikeston, was her sister's matron of honor. Her floor-length gown was fashioned of green chiffon over green satin. Her headpiece was green net over green satin. Mrs. Pobst carried a bouquet of white roses tipped in green.

Miss Glenda Emerson, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Sharon Pirtle were bridesmaids. They wore gowns and headpieces identical to that of the matron of honor. They carried white roses tipped in green.

Miss Elizabeth Post, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a white floor-length dress of satin and lace. Her headpiece was white net over white satin. She carried a white straw basket filled with white roses.

Candlelighters were Cheryl and Linda Kay Emerson, sisters of the bride. They wore floor-length dresses of green chiffon and satin and wrist corsages of white roses.

Miss Lyn Randall, pianist, provided prenuptial music and accompanied Miss Linda Jones, who sang "The Hawaiian Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Larry Schwepker, cousin of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Glenn Davis and Jim Hanks. Ushers were J. R. Emerson and Bradley Emerson, brothers of the bride. Ringbearer was Scott Bumgardner, cousin of the bride

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Emerson wore a two piece suit of beige knit complemented with matching accessories.

Mrs. Johnson wore a blue and white dress with matching accessories. Both mothers wore white carnation corsages.

A reception was held in the church dining room. The bride's table was decorated in green and white. A three tiered white wedding cake decorated with green and yellow centered the table. Punch bowls appointed each side of the cake. Mrs. Juanita Isaacs and Mrs. Anita Freed, aunts of the bride, served.

Miss Sharon Chapman was in charge of the guest book.

After a wedding trip, the couple is living in Oran.

Mary Sharen McVay Pledges Vows With Warren L. Howard

DILLON, Ill. -- Miss Sharen McVay, Perkin, Ill., and Warren LaVerne Howard, Pekin, were married at 2 p.m. Feb. 4 in the Mennonite church.

The Rev. Jarrel E. Huffman, pastor of the Moline, Ill., Baptist church, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. McVay, 1610 East Kathleen, Sikeston, Mo. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Howard, route two, Pekin.

The church was decorated with two altar baskets of white gladioli and yellow roses.

Richard Chism of Pekin, cousin of the bride, was soloist. He was accompanied by organist Sandra Metcalf.

Given in marriage by her uncle, William Dolan Chism of South Pekin, the bride wore a floor-length A-line wedding gown. The bodice was fashioned with long sleeves that came to points over the hands. The gown and chapel - length train were silk, accented with lace flowers. A crown of pearls and sequins secured a waist - length illusion veil.

The former Miss McVay carried a circle of white carnations tied with white ribbon.

Maid of honor was Miss Melissia McVay of Sikeston, the bride's sister. Miss Elizabeth Howard of Pekin, the groom's sister, was bridesmaid. The attendants wore floor-length A-line silk gowns. The empire bodices featured transparent sleeves and tiny pastel flowers. They wore shoulder-length veils encircling large silk bows. The maid of honor's gown was yellow and the bridesmaid's green.

The groom's brother, Johnny Howard of Pekin, was best man. Groomsman was Duane Howard of Pekin, the groom's brother. Ushers were Dick Young of Green Valley, Ill., cousin of the bride, and Carlisle Burden of Pekin, the groom's brother-in-law.

A reception was held in the church basement. The bride's table was centered with a three tiered chocolate wedding cake decorated in yellow and white sugar bells. The cake was topped with a miniature bridal couple. Serving were Mrs. Delsie Sexton, Mrs. Dorothy Bryant and Mrs. Ellen Burden, the groom's sister.

Assisting the couple with gifts were Mrs. Kathy Moore, Joyce Bryant, Cindy and Sharon Ackerman, all of Pekin.

The couple left for a wedding trip to New Orleans for the Mardi Gras. They will be home in apartment no. 1, 1104 South 10th, Pekin, March 1.

Mrs. Howard was a secretary for Kriegsman Transfer Company in Pekin before her marriage. Her husband is a carpenter for Stuber Bros. Construction Company, Tremont, Ill.

Edmunds Leads Parma to Title

MOREHOUSE--Parma claimed the championship of the New Madrid county junior high basketball tournament Saturday night by edging past New Madrid 55-53 behind the 31-point performance of guard Jesse Edmunds. Howardville took third place with a 54-44 win over Matthews in the opening game.

Parma rallied from a 26-22 first half deficit after running up a 15-10 first period lead. New Madrid made a gallant fight as it posted up 16 points in the second quarter while limiting Parma to seven. It seemed to have the momentum going until the second half when Edmunds started his scoring spree that shot the junior Pirates into a 35-35 tie going into the final period in which Parma took a 20-18 advantage for the victory.

The little 5-5 guard of the Pirates sank 15 and 20 foot jumpers throughout the night and rambled in for easy layins when the defense came out on the speedster. He along with teammate James Pope and Howardville's Charles Blair were named most valuable players for the tournament.

William Sims led a balanced scoring attack of the Indians. with 14 points.

Howardville surged past Matthews in the consolation game with a 41-point second half led by Blair's 28 points.

Matthews was topped by Wayne Griffin, who netted 13 points. It was awarded the Sikes sportsmanship trophy.

Parma, Matthews Land Three On All-Stars

MOREHOUSE - Parma and Matthews landed three players each on the all-tournament basketball team selected by the coaches at the Saturday night finals while Howardville, New Madrid, Morehouse and Lilbourn landed one each.

Those named were James Pope, Jesse Edmunds and Mike Garrard of Parma. Chester Dalton, Jacky Robinson and Earl McCaster of Matthews. Charles Blair of Howardville, Donald Tucker of New Madrid, Ricky Morton of Morehouse and Grant Dambach of Lilbourn.

Dogs Bite Rebels

An outstanding performance by Fred "Hustling" Townes paved the way for Sikeston's 71-66 win over Richland Saturday night at the Armory, the second win in two nights over highly rated teams.

Townes, playing somewhat up to his potential, posted 24 points and grabbed 19 rebounds as well as putting out on defense, blocking eight shots and holding his man to 12 points.

Early fouls hurt the Rebels who grabbed a 20-19 first period lead, but fell back as they were forced to early substitution and were never able to regain the lead again after the Dogs surged out front, 38-37, at the half and then blew up a 62-50 lead going into the final period.

Richland battled back in the final period, closing to within five points outscoring the Dogs 16-9.

Sikeston took its free throws to heart Saturday night, sinking 27 of 29 attempts after having a rather bad night at the charity line Friday when it fought off Poplar Bluff for a victory.

Gary Wiss contributed 15 points to the offensive side of the game and did a fair job of defense as an all out defensive effort checked the Rebels four top scorers to less than 13 points.

Richland lost three players via the foul route as 34 fouls were issued. The Bulldogs drew 25. Carl Barnett, who did an outstanding job rebounding, was lost via fouls.

A pair of games face the Dogs this week as they play host to Cape Girardeau Central and Scott County Central, an arch-rival game which will be held Saturday at the Armory.

The junior varsity Bulldogs rode the 22 point production of Carlock to victory. They had to fight off a second half Rebel surge for the win after rolling up what seemed to be an unbeatable first half lead of 39-22. Dan Wilson grabbed scoring honors by netting 23 points in pacing Richland scorers.

MESSAGE FOR THIEVES

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) - The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Thomas Kilfoil wrote out a note for the thieves who made off with an amplifier from St. Charles Roman Catholic Church here. The note read:

"To the two who entered an unlocked church at night to prey: You're welcome to our $200 amplifier which you stole. We only used it to pray. Since your need is greater than ours - accept it with our pity.

"P. S. The church remains and always shall be unlocked. You may bring back the amplifier when your guitar loses its song."

Edmunds Leads Parma to Title

MOREHOUSE--Parma claimed the championship of the New Madrid county junior high basketball tournament Saturday night by edging past New Madrid 55-53 behind the 31-point performance of guard Jesse Edmunds. Howardville took third place with a 54-44 win over Matthews in the opening game.

Parma rallied from a 26-22 first half deficit after running up a 15-10 first period lead. New Madrid made a gallant fight as it posted up 16 points in the second quarter while limiting Parma to seven. It seemed to have the momentum going until the second half when Edmunds started his scoring spree that shot the junior Pirates into a 35-35 tie going into the final period in which Parma took a 20-18 advantage for the victory.

The little 5-5 guard of the Pirates sank 15 and 20 foot jumpers throughout the night and rambled in for easy layins when the defense came out on the speedster. He along with teammate James Pope and Howardville's Charles Blair were named most valuable players for the tournament.

William Sims led a balanced scoring attack of the Indians. with 14 points.

Howardville surged past Matthews in the consolation game with a 41-point second half led by Blair's 28 points.

Matthews was topped by Wayne Griffin, who netted 13 points. It was awarded the Sikes sportsmanship trophy.

Parma, Matthews Land Three On All-Stars

MOREHOUSE - Parma and Matthews landed three players each on the all-tournament basketball team selected by the coaches at the Saturday night finals while Howardville, New Madrid, Morehouse and Lilbourn landed one each.

Those named were James Pope, Jesse Edmunds and Mike Garrard of Parma. Chester Dalton, Jacky Robinson and Earl McCaster of Matthews. Charles Blair of Howardville, Donald Tucker of New Madrid, Ricky Morton of Morehouse and Grant Dambach of Lilbourn.

Dogs Bite Rebels

An outstanding performance by Fred "Hustling" Townes paved the way for Sikeston's 71-66 win over Richland Saturday night at the Armory, the second win in two nights over highly rated teams.

Townes, playing somewhat up to his potential, posted 24 points and grabbed 19 rebounds as well as putting out on defense, blocking eight shots and holding his man to 12 points.

Early fouls hurt the Rebels who grabbed a 20-19 first period lead, but fell back as they were forced to early substitution and were never able to regain the lead again after the Dogs surged out front, 38-37, at the half and then blew up a 62-50 lead going into the final period.

Richland battled back in the final period, closing to within five points outscoring the Dogs 16-9.

Sikeston took its free throws to heart Saturday night, sinking 27 of 29 attempts after having a rather bad night at the charity line Friday when it fought off Poplar Bluff for a victory.

Gary Wiss contributed 15 points to the offensive side of the game and did a fair job of defense as an all out defensive effort checked the Rebels four top scorers to less than 13 points.

Richland lost three players via the foul route as 34 fouls were issued. The Bulldogs drew 25. Carl Barnett, who did an outstanding job rebounding, was lost via fouls.

A pair of games face the Dogs this week as they play host to Cape Girardeau Central and Scott County Central, an arch-rival game which will be held Saturday at the Armory.

The junior varsity Bulldogs rode the 22 point production of Carlock to victory. They had to fight off a second half Rebel surge for the win after rolling up what seemed to be an unbeatable first half lead of 39-22. Dan Wilson grabbed scoring honors by netting 23 points in pacing Richland scorers.

BLACKMAIL - MISAPPLIED TO FEDERAL PROGRAMS?

JEFFERSON CITY - The term "Washington blackmail" has been applied in recent weeks to federal welfare programs which are designed to coerce compliance by the states. The question is whether it has been misapplied.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes told a group of federal officials who were recently in Jefferson City that he considered a change made in the federal medicaid program as blackmail and a "breach of contract."

The change, made by the 1967 Congress, requires the state to pay the $4 a month premium for old age pensioners who are participating in the federal-state medicaid program or be faced with no federal assistance in supplementing physicians' bills under the program.

About 75,000 pensioners pay $3 a month to qualify for a physicians care under the Medicare Act. The rate goes to $4 April 1. For those persons the federal government guarantees payment of 80 per cent of the physician's costs, less $50. The state pays for the rest.

But some 25,000 people don't pay the $3 for they know that, under Medicaid, the cost of physicians' fees is guaranteed. So to close this loophole and prevent others from escaping payment, the federal government has required that the state pay this premium -- at a cost of $1.2 million. Whereas, the state would be forced to pay a minimum of $1.5 million in physicians' fees if there were no federal assistance.

The same allegation of blackmail has been leveled at the federal requirement of participation in the ADC program by 1969.

This program provides that states must add to their present programs for Aid to Dependent Children the provision that unemployed fathers may live in the home with their children who are receiving welfare benefits.

The cost to the state will be an additional $1.2 million for payments to the fathers who are unemployed and living in the home, and $500,000 to establish training programs which the fathers may attend to prepare for re-employment.

Both of the above measures have been passed by the State Senate and are being considered by the House, and passage is expected.

But approval will not come easy, and more Senators and Representatives are joining the governor in labeling this a federal blackmail program -- for if the state does not comply, it will be declared ineligible for many federal assistance programs it now receives money for, such as aid to the blind, old age pension programs and Medicare.

The situation is not all one-sided, however. The federal government has made optional a program to allow unemployed fathers to live with their children who receive ADC payments for several years, and provides two-thirds of the cost, which it still provides under the present mandatory program.

But few states took the initiative to adopt these programs, and Congress added the enforcing measure of withdrawing other welfare benefits if the ADC program were not adopted by the states.

On its face, it might seem that the federal government has waded further into the welfare area at the expense of the states. But the problem is not that simple.

First, the program has worked successfully in several states which have adopted it on a voluntary basis -- such as New York, Illinois and California. Secondly, payments are not just handed to an unemployed father when he chosses to stay with his family after losing a job.

The program was designed to preserve the family unit and discourage fathers from abandoning their children and wives in order that they might receive benefits under the ADC program.

Stiff requirements are provided to insure that payments are made only when needed.

The father must: (a) be physically present in Missouri, living in the home with the child or children, actively seeking employment, and complying with requirements of the state division of welfare. (b) He must have been unemployed at least 30 days prior to receiving the benefits under the bill.

The next requirement is an important one, and would hold up payments for at least 27 weeks in many cases: the father must have exhausted all unemployment compensation benefits to which he was or would have been entitled -- that is, he must have been unemployed for at least 27 weeks and have stopped receiving his weekly payments, or he must have had a substantial connection with the labor force for six quarters of the last three and one-quarter years, ending within the last year before application for ADC payments.

In addition, he must not have refused, without good cause, any available employment for which he is qualified, or any vocational rehabilitation, education, training, work incentive or special work projects offered to him.

Finally, he must be a natural or adoptive father or step-father of the child or children and be married to the mother.

After meeting these requirements, he is eligible got a payment of $33 a month, for not more than 60 days, in addition to the payments which his children receive under ADC.

Sen. William Cason (D-Clinton), sponsor of both of the above bills, feels that these programs are a form of blackmail by the federal government, but at the same time admits that Missouri should try this program to see if it will work toward solving many of the abuses associated with ADC and help replace stability in homes where the fathers have left or where a father would otherwise be forced to leave so that his children could receive subsistence payments.

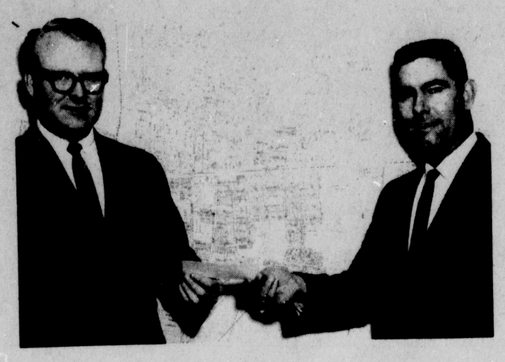

Often this is the case with fathers employed in seasonal operations where after a long period of unemployment no other benefits are available and the father would have to leave his home to see that his children are fed under ADC requirements. The bill under consideration by the Legislature, and submitted by the governor, would attempt to keep the father at home.

Death Lifts Charge Against Accused

Norton was charged with the anti-social crime of murder. Upon being convicted, be appealed to a higher court for a new trial and a new trial was granted. Before it could be held, however, providence interceded. Norton died. Nevertheless, his determined widow insisted upon the trial being held.

"It can't be done," argued the District Attorney. "You can't try a dead man. If he's found guilty, how can you punish him?"

"That's your problem," was the widow's answer. "But, if he's found innocent, as I know he was, he's entitled to have his good name cleared."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit the departed Norton to be tried for murder?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that a court has no jurisdication to try a dead man for murder; that the jurisdiction to determine the issue of guilt or innocence is assumed by the ultimate arbitrator of human affairs.

As for Norton's good name, concluded the judge, a man is presumed to be innocent until found guilty. Since Norton's guilt was undertermined at the time of his death, the legal presumption of innocence continues and his good name is protected.

Ann Landers

No Freedom to Go Around Nude

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter from the college student who complained because of an oddball roommate who liked to stand on his head. This is a problem?

I came to college from a small town in Michigan. I was prepared to be broad-minded and tolerant of the peculiarities of others. Well, when I met my roommate I nearly dropped dead. She looked like the lead character in Shock Theater -- long hair with bangs down to her nose, white lipstick and dark glasses which she wore day and night.

I could have stood all this but she had one habit that almost drove me crazy. The minute she came into the room she took off all her clothes. That girl walked around constantly in the nude. She slept nude, did her studying in the nude, and it would not have surprised me if she had tried to go to the cafeteria in the nude.

When I mentioned this to her she replied emphatically, "Clothes are an affectation of society. Man was meant to be a free spirit." If there's an answer to this I would like to have it. -- BARE FACTS

Dear Facts: The answer is as follows: "The freedom to swing your arms ends where the other person's nose begins. Part of being civilized is having respect for the feelings and wishes of others. Put on a bathrobe, Lady Godiva, or I'm going to the Dean with this."

Dear Ann Landers: Several letters have appeared in your column from women who complain about poor manners on the part of the American male. The cry is, "Chivalry is dead." Well, I'd like to say that if chivalry is dead, American women killed it.

I'm a male who enjoys opening door for women. I like to help them with their coats and allow them to pass through doors first. But the women I've been running into don't want to be treated like ladies. They race me to the door-knobs and hop out of cars before I can get over to assist them. They struggle with their own coats, pick up things they have dropped, hail taxis, interrupt to give an order to the waiter and in general remove any and all incentive a man might have to be a gentleman.

Please print this letter and let the women of America who decry the "decline of the male" ask themselves, "Can this be me?" -- A MOURNER

Dear Mourner: Here's your letter and now, women of America, ask yourselves, "Can this be you?"

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are being divorced. We have two children, a boy 6 and a girl 14. The boy wants to stay with me. His father has paid very little attention to the boy and there is no rapport whatever between them.

Debbie wants to live with her father because he has always been duck soup for her. She can wheedle anything she wants out of him. We have been having some terrific arguments over this and I am weary of fighting and ready to give in. What do you say? -- CLEVELAND MESS

Dear C.M.: Don't flunk the crunch, mother. Your daughter needs a firm hand and you know very well her father will not provide it.

If you allow Debbie to go live with her father you will regret it. And so will she. One day she'll say, "Why didn't you MAKE me stay with you? You should have insisted on it!"

Band Plays at P-TA Meeting

BELL CITY -- The Bell City Parent - Teacher Association met in the school library Monday night. The vice president, Mrs. Larry Strobel presided.

The devotion was conducted by the Rev. Bob Williamson, minister from the Hooe Baptist Church. His remarks were taken from Isaiah 40:4, with the subject "Signs to Follow."

Kenneth Riley, Bell City band director, presented his stage band, which played several numbers.

After the musical program, Mrs. Strobel called on Forrest Jackson, school superintendent, to give opening remarks concerning the reorganization plan that is currently being discussed in the state.

Jackson gave a brief history of the educational system in Missouri. In the 74th General Assembly a school district reorganization committee was appointed to study the reorganization needs in Missouri and to develop a master plan of school district reorganization for the state.

After figures were given as to school enrollment in the surrounding schools, school valuations, enrollment recommended by the state for high schools, (this being at least 500 but preferably 750), a period of open discussion was held with questions being directed to the board of education and superintendent of the board of education, made some remarks relative to the meeting that was held in Cape Girardeau Jan. 30, regarding reorganization.

The PTA elected a citizen's advisory committee of eight members who would work with the superintendent and school for developing plans for reorganization. This committee is composed of Cleatus Lemmons, Avery Cox, Tyree Brown, Dwight Richmond, Ferrel Austin, Pat Pullen, Ed Nenninger and Clellan Stewart.

Eastern Star Official Calls At Bell City

BELL CITY -- Mrs. Ann Bidewell of Advance, district deputy grand matron of the 50th district of Missouri, Order of the Eastern Star, made her official visit to Sapphire chapter Tuesday night.

Guests were present from Advance, St. Marks, Cape Girardeau, Zalma and Marble Hill chapters.

Mrs. Otto Lape, worthy matron, and Otto Lape, worthy patron, presided.

Mrs. Helen Burton, Marble Hill, a member of Victoria chapter, served the station of Martha. Mrs. Bidewell was honored in an honorary skit and presented a gift from the chapter.

A social hour was held in the dining room. The serving table was covered with a white lace cloth. A floral arrangement centered the table, lighted candles flanking the centerpiece. Punch and coffee were served from each end and homemade cookies from a crystal tray.

You say your doctor needs advice on your electrocardiogram. But the nearest heart specialist is miles away?
Here's the answer.

Our Data-Phone* medical data service lets doctors send electrocardiograms (EKG's) directly from the patient to a remote point over regular telephone lines.
With this new service, your doctor can send a "picture" of your heart action to a specialist for immediate consultation. You can be in the doctor's office, in a hospital examination room, or in your own bed. The specialist can be cross-town or cross-country.
Data-Phone medical data service is particularly helpful to doctors who aren't trained in EKG analysis, and to patients who can't go to a specialist because of health or distance.

BLACKMAIL - MISAPPLIED TO FEDERAL PROGRAMS?

JEFFERSON CITY - The term "Washington blackmail" has been applied in recent weeks to federal welfare programs which are designed to coerce compliance by the states. The question is whether it has been misapplied.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes told a group of federal officials who were recently in Jefferson City that he considered a change made in the federal medicaid program as blackmail and a "breach of contract."

She slept nude, did her studying in the nude, and it would not have surprised me if she had tried to go to the cafeteria in the nude.

When I mentioned this to her she replied emphatically, "Clothes are an affectation of society. Man was meant to be a free spirit." If there's an answer to this I would like to have it. -- BARE FACTS

Dear Facts: The answer is as follows: "The freedom to swing your arms ends where the other person's nose begins. Part of being civilized is having respect for the feelings and wishes of others. Put on a bathrobe, Lady Godiva, or I'm going to the Dean with this."

Dear Ann Landers: Several letters have appeared in your column from women who complain about poor manners on the part of the American male. The cry is, "Chivalry is dead." Well, I'd like to say that if chivalry is dead, American women killed it.

I'm a male who enjoys opening door for women. I like to help them with their coats and allow them to pass through doors first. But the women I've been running into don't want to be treated like ladies. They race me to the door-knobs and hop out of cars before I can get over to assist them. They struggle with their own coats, pick up things they have dropped, hail taxis, interrupt to give an order to the waiter and in general remove any and all incentive a man might have to be a gentleman.

Please print this letter and let the women of America who decry the "decline of the male" ask themselves, "Can this be me?" -- A MOURNER

Dear Mourner: Here's your letter and now, women of America, ask yourselves, "Can this be you?"

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are being divorced. We have two children, a boy 6 and a girl 14. The boy wants to stay with me. His father has paid very little attention to the boy and there is no rapport whatever between them.

Debbie wants to live with her father because he has always been duck soup for her. She can wheedle anything she wants out of him. We have been having some terrific arguments over this and I am weary of fighting and ready to give in. What do you say?--- CLEVELAND MESS

Dear C.M.: Don't flunk the crunch, mother. Your daughter needs a firm hand and you know very well her father will not provide it.

If you allow Debbie to go live with her father you will regret it. And so will she. One day she'll say, "Why didn't you MAKE me stay with you? You should have insisted on it!"

"The Bride's Guide," Ann Landers' booklet, answers some of the most frequently asked questions about weddings. To receive your copy of this comprehensive guide, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Band Plays at P-TA Meeting

BELL CITY -- The Bell City Parent - Teacher Association met in the school library Monday night. The vice president, Mrs. Larry Strobel presided.

The devotion was conducted by the Rev. Bob Williamson, minister from the Hooe Baptist Church. His remarks were taken from Isaiah 40:4, with the subject "Signs to Follow."

Kenneth Riley, Bell City band director, presented his stage band, which played several numbers.

After the musical program, Mrs. Strobel called on Forrest Jackson, school superintendent, to give opening remarks concerning the reorganization plan that is currently being discussed in the state.

Jackson gave a brief history of the educational system in Missouri. In the 74th General Assembly a school district reorganization committee was appointed to study the reorganization needs in Missouri and to develop a master plan of school district reorganization for the state.

After figures were given as to school enrollment in the surrounding schools, school valuations, enrollment recommended by the state for high schools, (this being at least 500 but preferably 750), a period of open discussion was held with questions being directed to the board of education and superintendent of the board of education, made some remarks relative to the meeting that was held in Cape Girardeau Jan. 30, regarding reorganization.

The PTA elected a citizen's advisory committee of eight members who would work with the superintendent and school for developing plans for reorganization. This committee is composed of Cleatus Lemmons, Avery Cox, Tyree Brown, Dwight Richmond, Ferrel Austin, Pat Pullen, Ed Nenninger and Clellan Stewart.

Eastern Star Official Calls At Bell City

BELL CITY -- Mrs. Ann Bidewell of Advance, district deputy grand matron of the 50th district of Missouri, Order of the Eastern Star, made her official visit to Sapphire chapter Tuesday night.

Guests were present from Advance, St. Marks, Cape Girardeau, Zalma and Marble Hill chapters.

Mrs. Otto Lape, worthy matron, and Otto Lape, worthy patron, presided.

Mrs. Helen Burton, Marble Hill, a member of Victoria chapter, served the station of Martha. Mrs. Bidewell was honored in an honorary skit and presented a gift from the chapter.

A social hour was held in the dining room. The serving table was covered with a white lace cloth. A floral arrangement centered the table, lighted candles flanking the centerpiece. Punch and coffee were served from each end and homemade cookies from a crystal tray.

You say your doctor needs advice on your electrocardiogram. But the nearest heart specialist is miles away?

Here's the answer.

Our Data-Phone* medical data service lets doctors send electrocardiograms (EKG's) directly from the patient to a remote point over regular telephone lines.

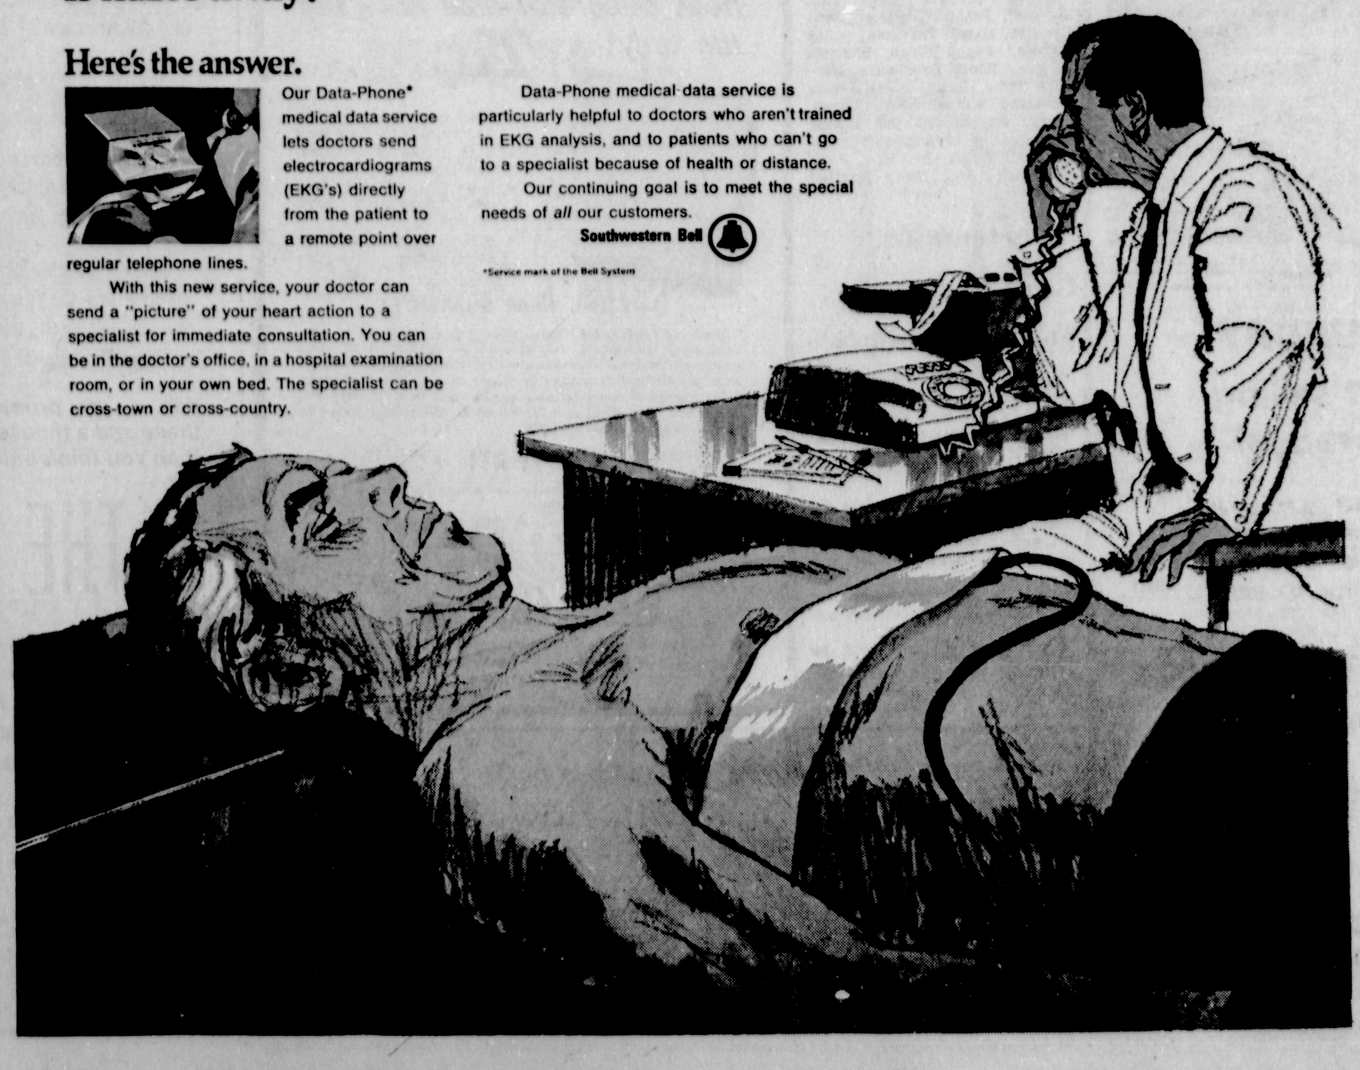

With this new service, your doctor can send a "picture" of your heart action to a specialist for immediate consultation. You can be in the doctor's office, in a hospital examination room, or in your own bed. The specialist can be cross-town or cross-country.

Data-Phone medical data service is particularly helpful to doctors who aren't trained in EKG analysis, and to patients who can't go to a specialist because of health or distance.

Our continuing goal is to meet the special needs of all our customers.

Flight Training Aids Men in Emergency

CAPE GIRARDEAU - Two Cape Girardeau men credited their flight training for their escape from serious injury when their airplane made an emergency landing near East Prairie.

"It was just a matter of doing what you had to do," said Wm. F. Suedekum Jr., Villa lane, who was piloting the plane for the owner, Carlton J. Lorberg, 433 South Sprigg.

Both men suffered bruises.

They had left Cape Girardeau early in the day in the Cessna 206, six - place, single engine plane and had flown to Kentucky Lake to transact business.

They were on the return trip and were to stop at the Dexter airport where Mr. Lorberg was to pick up another plane he owns and pilot it to a municipal airport.

North of East Prairie, the airplane developed engine trouble. At this time, it was flying at an altitude of 2,000 feet.

Suedekum and Lorberg said they remembered their flight training and immediately shut off the engines and turned off all switches.

The plane, by then, had dropped to 1,500 feet, the occupants said.

"We were beneath the clouds, the visibility was good and we had plenty of ceiling," Lorberg commented.

The men said they set their plane at the proper glide angle and began to look for a place to land.

Most of the fields looked about the same and they realized they were probably muddy. Because of the wetness, they said they knew the wheels most likely would not roll, the plane would jolt upon impact and probably flip over.

Just as the wheels neared the ground, the occupants simultaneously said to each other, "Is your seat belt fastened?" It was in both instances.

True to expectations, Lorberg and Suedekum said the wheels of the plane did sink about a foot in the mud and the plane nosed over, landing on its top.

For a brief time, the occupants were hanging upside down by their seat belts and bruises around the waists resulted.

They released their belts and crawled out the doors to the ground. Lorberg looked at his watch. It was 4:55, he said.

Two men were running across the newly sown wheat field on the Sam Jones farm, two miles southwest of East Prairie on Mississippi County Route Z.

Lorberg and Suedekum said they did not learn the names of the men who came to the scene, but they were able to catch a ride into East Prairie with them.

There, they telephoned Howard Herman who drove from Cape Girardeau to bring them home.

Looking back, Suedekum said, "There was no anxiety. It was just one of those things. I've been more scared on a highway when I had a close call with another vehicle and another driver."

"We were able to slow the aircraft down and therefore did not hit the ground real hard," he added.

"This shows what our training has meant and we are proud of that training," Lorberg remarked.

"The landing was ample proof there is no excuse for anyone to get killed when at 2,000 feet of altitude, over farm land and trouble develops. Just keep your plane flat and level. You might lose an aircraft, but it is just material," he continued.

And he did lose a plane. While the interior is not damaged, the airplane is considered as totally demolished because of damage to the fuselage and other parts. The Federal Aviation Agency will investigate in an attempt to find the cause of the engine trouble.

Seudekum obtained his pilot's license in 1956 and has about 800 hours of flight time. Lorberg has registered more than 700 hours since getting his license in 1961.

Suedekum is associated with the Graphic Communications Photocopy Co., and Lorberg with the Lorberg Funeral Home and the Lorberg Appliance Co.

Will they fly again?

"Certainly," they commented.

"The deepest bruise I have is on my leg from the imprint of a small book of Bible verses I carry in my pocket," Suedekum said.

MAMOS Eager to Aid Industrial Development

WARDELL -- The Bootheel office of the Missouri Associated Migrant Opportunity Services, Inc. has contacted Sam Hunter, Jr. of New Madrid, a member of the Southeast Missouri Development Corporation, notifying him that MAMOS is eager to cooperate in any way possible as a training vehicle to help prepare Bootheel residents for industrial employment.

Bud Davis, Dexter mayor, has also been contacted by MAMOS about the new Fram Corporation locating in Dexter.

The regional MAMOS office reports that it has also contacted Missouri Gov. Warren Hearnes, the Division of Commerce and Industrial Development, the Department of Community Affairs and the Technical Advisory Office, indicating the desire for MAMOS to assist in attracting industry to Southeast Missouri.

The MAMOS office in Wardell has also filed a preliminary draft of an on-the-job training proposal with the Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training in St. Louis. This proposal expresses the desire of MAMOS to develop a minimum of 25 OJT slots in the Dunklin, Pemiscot and New Madrid county area. The budget for the proposed training program is slightly under $9,000.

The proposal, according to MAMOS, is strictly preliminary in nature and is required by the Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training in order to determine if MAMOS is a suitable agency to serve as a prime OJT contractor. When MAMOS is approved as a suitable agency a more detailed proposal will be submitted to negotiate an OJT program with the Bureau.

With the assistance of Dr. Marvin Fielding of the State Technical Advisory Office, the State Office has made arrangements for MAMOS to participate in the program administered by the Apprenticeship Information Center and the Missouri State Employment Service in St. Louis.

The Apprenticeship Information Center is operated by the Division of Employment Security and brings together employers and labor organizations in an effort to improve apprenticeship and trainin programs for those interested in occupations within skilled crafts or trades. Periodic bulletins are published by the information center indicating various apprenticeship opportunities that exist and the qualifications for entry into apprenticeship programs. It is hoped that this program can be utilized to provide specialized skill training to trainess within the MAMOS program.

Head Start Teachers to Be Trained

PORTAGEVILLE - The University of Missouri college of education in Columbia in cooperation with the extension division will initiate an in-service training program for teaching personnel of the Delta area head start. The Program has been designed by Dr. Charles H. Koelling, director of continuing professional education.

These sessions are scheduled to start Tuesday and continue each Tuesday from 2 p.m.- 5 p.m. through June 4 at the Delta extension and research center.

The subjects to be taught are six hours of child study, six hours of The learning process, six hours of language development, six hours of cognitive development, nine hours of methods and management, three hours of parent involvement, six hours of pupil assessment, and three hours of review.

Instructors from the college of education who will participate in these training sessions are Dr. A. Sterl Artley, Mrs. Jackie Bihr, Dr. James Craigmile, Dr. Earl Moore, Mrs. Virginia Morgan and Dr. John Wilson.

In-service training for the teaching staff of the Delta area Head Start is conducted on a continuing basis to help the staff develop a better understanding of the Head Start program. Specialists are secured to instruct the teachers in order to upgrade the quality of the program being presented to Head Start youngsters. In-service trainin is carried out during working hours and to some extent on volunteered time.

Recognizing the shortage of persons trained to work with the pre-school age child and also the availability of persons, who can be trained to make a valuable contribution to the pre-school program, the in-service training program is considered to be a vital part of the overall Head Start program.

LINCOLN IN LOVE

By JERRY KLEIN
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

It's a common misconception that Abraham Lincoln had but one real love in his life, that he lost that love with the death of Ann Rutledge and never really felt deeply about any woman afterward.

"He was not very fond of girls," Abe's stepmother remarked. But the fact is that Lincoln had plenty of girl friends and came close to matrimony more than once in his younger days. His nearest approach to the altar involved the almost-forgotten Mary Owens, whose cherubic features you may see in this rare picture.

Lincoln's first romantic dalliance came in his early 'teens. The girl was Ann Roby, a school chum in Indiana.

She'd listen by the hour while young Abe spoke of what he had read in books. But the farm boy had no tongue for sweet phrases, so their romance cooled.

In later years, Ann admitted that when they met Abe spoke to her not so eloquently of love as of algebra. At 18, Ann was married to a rival of Lincoln, who knew better how to woo a mate.

Abe went off to run a ferry on the Ohio River between Indiana and Kentucky. Rival boatmen had the ragged youth arrested for ferrying passengers without a license. But young Lincoln stood up in court and defended himself successfully before the backwoods judge.

The judge, incidentally, had a niece who sat in on the trial. Afterward, she congratulated Lincoln and another romance flowered. Caroline Meeker saw young Lincoln often in the weeks following the trial.

The Meekers were a proud, successful family. Soon they forbade Caroline to encourage the lanky farmer. Conscious of his poverty and ignorance, Lincoln ended his ferry trips over the river to the Meeker home.

To Macon County, Ill., the Lincolns came by oxcart in 1830. Abe was 21 and hard as the point of his plow. He got a job splitting rails for the county sheriff, Major William Warnick.

The sheriff liked the way Lincoln attacked the wood pile but frowned on Abe's growing friendship with his daughter, Polly. Unschooled Lincoln seemed hardly a suitable suitor for Polly's hand. Polly listened to her father, and gradually Abe stopped calling.

In 1831, Lincoln got a job ferrying a bargeload of goods down the Sangamon River. The boat became stuck on a milldam at New Salem, Ill., and there young Abe met Ann Rutledge, daughter of a local tavernkeeper. Theirs was to be a romance emphasized out of all proportion to the facts.

Ann came to the river that day to see Lincoln's stranded boat. Lincoln saw her blue eyes and pleasing face, learned her name and vowed to return to New Salem.

He did return after delivering the cargo and got a job in a store across the road from the Rutledge tavern. Soon, he was introduced to the auburn-haired, 18-year-old girl.

When Lincoln was done at the store and Ann could leave the tavern, they walked together by the river.

So far as we know, Lincoln never spoke to Ann of marriage. He left New Salem to take a seat in the Illinois Legislature. Meanwhile, Ann became engaged to an Easterner. In the spring of 1835, Abe returned but there is no proof he and Ann planned to marry.

That summer heavy rains swept Illinois and there was an epidemic of malaria. In August, Ann became ill while Abe was out surveying some land a few miles from town. Surely, if he and Ann were engaged, he would have come to her bedside, but he did not.

Peruvian bark, boneset tea and calomel failed to help Ann. She died on Aug. 25.

Without doubt, Ann Rutledge and Abraham Lincoln were good friends. But the time-honored legend that her death broke Abe's spirit and made him forever a brooding melancholiac is plain nonsense.

Proof that he was not in love with Ann is the fact that a year after her death, Lincoln was having a light-hearted affair with a girl named Mary Owens. He was even considering asking her to be his wife.

Lincoln met Miss Owens when she came from Kentucky to visit her sister in New Salem. To Lincoln, she seemed "intelligent and agreeable" and he said he saw "no good objection to plodding through life hand in hand with her."

Miss Owens returned to Kentucky but Lincoln told her sister that if she ever returned to New Salem he would "catch, tie and marry" her.

Back came Miss Owens not long afterward. Abe courted her for four months and offered to marry her, although the offer wasn't too enthusiastic.

The reason Lincoln's ardor cooled is difficult to say. He was sad, of course, over Ann's death; he was disappointed with a stumbling political career, and he was alarmed by Miss Owens' increasing plumpness.

Lincoln's final letter to Mary Owens ended their romance. If further meetings, he wrote, "would contribute nothing to your happiness, I am sure it would not to mine. If it suits you best not to answer this, farewell. A long life and a merry one attend you."

Another visitor from Kentucky was Mary Todd. Lincoln was in the legislature in Springfield, Ill., when she first came there in 1837. She was 19, and Lincoln 28. Abe was immediately captivated by Miss Todd's energy and intelligence.

Mary Todd spoke French, knew the topics of the day, and was a sprightly dancer. But Lincoln felt he had little to offer so remarkable a woman. After a round of dances and receptions, Miss Todd returned to Kentucky.

At this point, a Sarah Rickard entered Lincoln's romantic life. She and Abe went frequently to parties and dances. Actually, the rail-splitter proposed to her, but he did it in such an offhand way she didn't take the proposal seriously.

Mary Todd came back to Springfield in 1840, frankly to cast her eyes over the eligible bachelors. Asked which one she'd set her cap for, Mary replied, "The one that has the best chance of being president."

Some say he and Mary were to be married on New Year's Day, 1841. Lincoln answered roll call in the legislature that day and there was no wedding. The romance was apparently shattered, at least temporarily.

Now Lincoln's name becomes connected with two more women: Matilda Edwards of Springfield, and Mary Curtis of Louisville, Ky. It is thought that Lincoln gave Miss Curtis a gold watch which he originally had intended as Mary Todd's wedding gift.

Months later, he and Miss Todd were reunited. Their peacemaker was a Springfield woman. Lincoln renewed his courtship.

The morning of Nov. 4, 1842, Abe and Mary suddenly announced they would be married the same evening. There were few guests at the ceremony. Mary wore a white dress, but no veil or flowers.

A week after the wedding, Lincoln wrote to a friend: "Nothing new here, except my marrying, which is to me a matter of profound wonder."

To Mary Todd, Lincoln became a faithful, patient husband. Such he would remain until the spring evening his wife persuaded him to see the play at Ford's Theatre.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

PRAYER: Father, give to us a large measure of compassion. As we do our work and mingle with persons, may we strive to bring calm where there is confusion, instill faith to banish doubt, build confidence to replace fear, offer comfort to those who are in sorrow. In the name of the compassionate Christ. Amen.

They sat down with him upon the ground seven days and seven nights, and non spake a word unto him: for thoy saw that his grief was very great. (Job 2:13)

All-Women Jury

In Colonial history, importance is attached to the Judith Catchpole case because she was tried on a charge of murder before a jury of 11 women. This is the first recorded instance of a jury composed entirely of women.

Petitions Ask Illmo-Scott City Consolidation Vote

ILLMO-SCOTT CITY: Members of the committee for the consolidation of Illmo and Scott City, and other citizens, started circulation of petitions Feb. 3, in the twin-cities calling for an election regarding the consolidation of the two towns.

Kenneth Raney, chairman of the committee seeking the merger, said that when the required number of names are obtained, which is 100 from each city, the petitions will be presented to the city councils of each city. The councils then will be required to forward the petitions to the County Court of Scott County. The court then will call an election within from 10 to 30 days after receiving the petitions.

Anyone interested in the move may obtain information by contacting Raney in Illmo or Collin Dover and Joe Goodman in Scott City.

The consolidation move was begun by the consolidation committee about three years ago, Raney said. The original idea was to have the two city councils, because of their experience in city government, call an election. Many starts were made in this direction with the cooperation of both councils, but for various reasons, the move was continually stalled, Raney stated.

It is the desire of the committee that both councils will cooperate by expediting the procedure of the petitions in order that an election may be called before the coming city elections, Raney said.

Raney stated that in any case, the election will be called according to the laws of Missouri.

Road Bumpy for Good Reason

HANCOCK, Mich. (AP) — Arthur Pudas was puzzled by the bumpiness of the road but apparently was unconcerned until he saw a train heading his way.

Pudas had been driving along in a blizzard and didn't notice a bend in the road. Instead, he kept going straight ahead along snow-covered railroad tracks.

He traveled about 500 feet before meeting the train. The engineer stopped and the driver got off the track safely.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

NEW YORK (AP) — Littered ski slopes are proving to be upsetting to skiers.

Keep America Beautiful Inc., the national antilitter organization, warns that beverage containers, lunch cartons and other items left on the ski trail can trip the unwary skier causing painful injury.

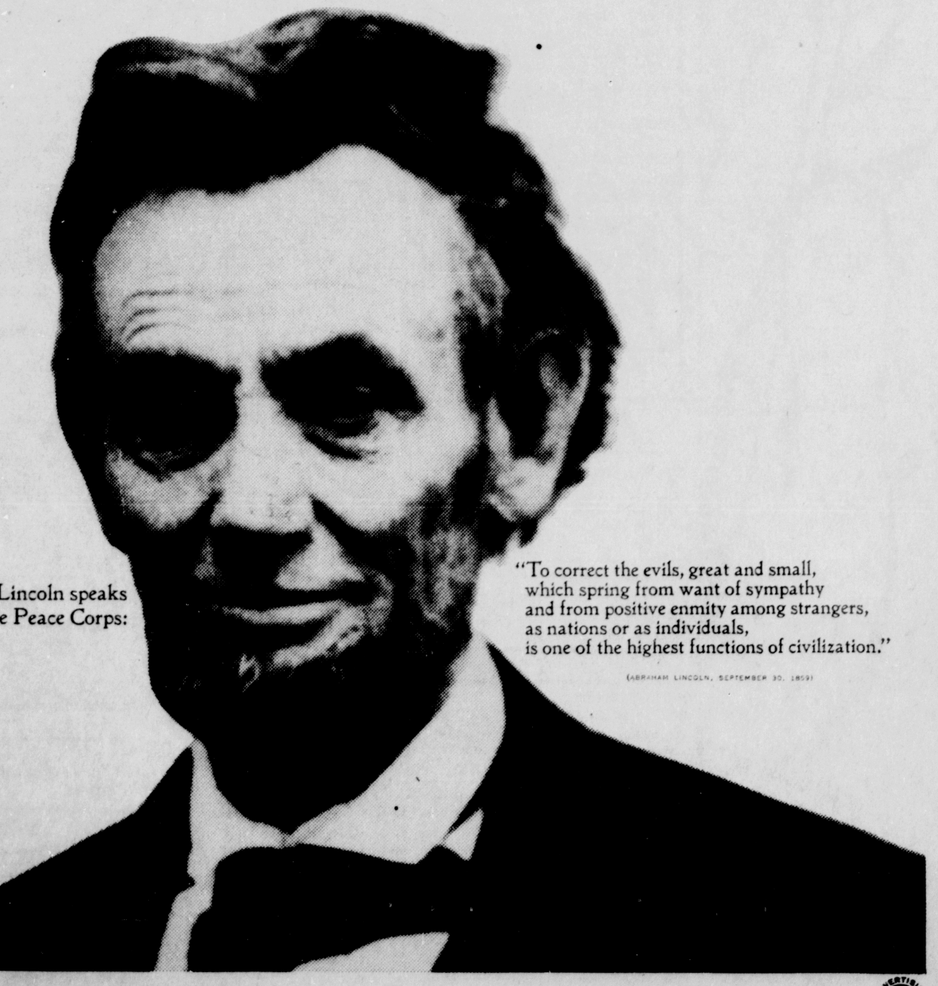

KAB reminds that in addition to the danger, litter on ski slopes is unsightly. Even though the slope may be covered by fresh snow, litter will eventually show its ugly face to mar the green beauty that should follow spring's thaw.

FIRST VOLUNTEERS FROM CAMBRIDGE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)— Cambridge residents, fired with the abolitionist sentiments of William Lloyd Garrison, formed the first volunteer company to serve with Union forces.

Head Start Teachers to Be Trained

PORTAGEVILLE - The University of Missouri college of education in Columbia in cooperation with the extension division will initiate an in-service training program for teaching personnel of the Delta area head start. The Program has been designed by Dr. Charles H. Koelling, director of continuing professional education.

These sessions are scheduled to start Tuesday and continue each Tuesday from 2 p.m.- 5 p.m. through June 4 at the Delta extension and research center.

The subjects to be taught are six hours of child study, six hours of The learning process, six hours of language development, six hours of cognitive development, nine hours of methods and management, three hours of parent involvement, six hours of pupil assessment, and three hours of review.

Instructors from the college of education who will participate in these training sessions are Dr. A. Sterl Artley, Mrs. Jackie Bihr, Dr. James Craigmile, Dr. Earl Moore, Mrs. Virginia Morgan and Dr. John Wilson.

In-service training for the teaching staff of the Delta area Head Start is conducted on a continuing basis to help the staff develop a better understanding of the Head Start program. Specialists are secured to instruct the teachers in order to upgrade the quality of the program being presented to Head Start youngsters. In-service trainin is carried out during working hours and to some extent on volunteered time.

Recognizing the shortage of persons trained to work with the pre-school age child and also the availability of persons, who can be trained to make a valuable contribution to the pre-school program, the in-service training program is considered to be a vital part of the overall Head Start program.

LINCOLN IN LOVE

By JERRY KLEIN
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

It's a common misconception that Abraham Lincoln had but one real love in his life, that he lost that love with the death of Ann Rutledge and never really felt deeply about any woman afterward.

"He was not very fond of girls," Abe's stepmother remarked. But the fact is that Lincoln had plenty of girl friends and came close to matrimony more than once in his younger days. His nearest approach to the altar involved the almost-forgotten Mary Owens, whose cherubic features you may see in this rare picture.

Lincoln's first romantic dalliance came in his early 'teens. The girl was Ann Roby, a school chum in Indiana.

She'd listen by the hour while young Abe spoke of what he had read in books. But the farm boy had no tongue for sweet phrases, so their romance cooled.

In later years, Ann admitted that when they met Abe spoke to her not so eloquently of love as of algebra. At 18, Ann was married to a rival of Lincoln, who knew better how to woo a mate.

Abe went off to run a ferry on the Ohio River between Indiana and Kentucky. Rival boatmen had the ragged youth arrested for ferrying passengers without a license. But young Lincoln stood up in court and defended himself successfully before the backwoods judge.

The judge, incidentally, had a niece who sat in on the trial. Afterward, she congratulated Lincoln and another romance flowered. Caroline Meeker saw young Lincoln often in the weeks following the trial.

The Meekers were a proud, successful family. Soon they forbade Caroline to encourage the lanky farmer. Conscious of his poverty and ignorance, Lincoln ended his ferry trips over the river to the Meeker home.

To Macon County, Ill., the Lincolns came by oxcart in 1830. Abe was 21 and hard as the point of his plow. He got a job splitting rails for the county sheriff, Major William Warnick.

The sheriff liked the way Lincoln attacked the wood pile but frowned on Abe's growing friendship with his daughter, Polly. Unschooled Lincoln seemed hardly a suitable suitor for Polly's hand. Polly listened to her father, and gradually Abe stopped calling.

In 1831, Lincoln got a job ferrying a bargeload of goods down the Sangamon River. The boat became stuck on a milldam at New Salem, Ill., and there young Abe met Ann Rutledge, daughter of a local tavernkeeper. Theirs was to be a romance emphasized out of all proportion to the facts.

Ann came to the river that day to see Lincoln's stranded boat. Lincoln saw her blue eyes and pleasing face, learned her name and vowed to return to New Salem.

He did return after delivering the cargo and got a job in a store across the road from the Rutledge tavern. Soon, he was introduced to the auburn-haired, 18-year-old girl.

When Lincoln was done at the store and Ann could leave the tavern, they walked together by the river.

So far as we know, Lincoln never spoke to Ann of marriage. He left New Salem to take a seat in the Illinois Legislature. Meanwhile, Ann became engaged to an Easterner. In the spring of 1835, Abe returned but there is no proof he and Ann planned to marry.

That summer heavy rains swept Illinois and there was an epidemic of malaria. In August, Ann became ill while Abe was out surveying some land a few miles from town. Surely, if he and Ann were engaged, he would have come to her bedside, but he did not.

Peruvian bark, boneset tea and calomel failed to help Ann. She died on Aug. 25.

Without doubt, Ann Rutledge and Abraham Lincoln were good friends. But the time-honored legend that her death broke Abe's spirit and made him forever a brooding melancholiac is plain nonsense.

Proof that he was not in love with Ann is the fact that a year after her death, Lincoln was having a light-hearted affair with a girl named Mary Owens. He was even considering asking her to be his wife.

Lincoln met Miss Owens when she came from Kentucky to visit her sister in New Salem. To Lincoln, she seemed "intelligent and agreeable" and he said he saw "no good objection to plodding through life hand in hand with her."

Miss Owens returned to Kentucky but Lincoln told her sister that if she ever returned to New Salem he would "catch, tie and marry" her.

Back came Miss Owens not long afterward. Abe courted her for four months and offered to marry her, although the offer wasn't too enthusiastic.

The reason Lincoln's ardor cooled is difficult to say. He was sad, of course, over Ann's death; he was disappointed with a stumbling political career, and he was alarmed by Miss Owens' increasing plumpness.

Lincoln's final letter to Mary Owens ended their romance. If further meetings, he wrote, "would contribute nothing to your happiness, I am sure it would not to mine. If it suits you best not to answer this, farewell. A long life and a merry one attend you."

Another visitor from Kentucky was Mary Todd. Lincoln was in the legislature in Springfield, Ill., when she first came there in 1837. She was 19, and Lincoln 28. Abe was immediately captivated by Miss Todd's energy and intelligence.

Mary Todd spoke French, knew the topics of the day, and was a sprightly dancer. But Lincoln felt he had little to offer so remarkable a woman. After a round of dances and receptions, Miss Todd returned to Kentucky.

At this point, a Sarah Rickard entered Lincoln's romantic life. She and Abe went frequently to parties and dances. Actually, the rail-splitter proposed to her, but he did it in such an offhand way she didn't take the proposal seriously.

Mary Todd came back to Springfield in 1840, frankly to cast her eyes over the eligible bachelors. Asked which one she'd set her cap for, Mary replied, "The one that has the best chance of being president."

Some say he and Mary were to be married on New Year's Day, 1841. Lincoln answered roll call in the legislature that day and there was no wedding. The romance was apparently shattered, at least temporarily.

Now Lincoln's name becomes connected with two more women: Matilda Edwards of Springfield, and Mary Curtis of Louisville, Ky. It is thought that Lincoln gave Miss Curtis a gold watch which he originally had intended as Mary Todd's wedding gift.

Months later, he and Miss Todd were reunited. Their peacemaker was a Springfield woman. Lincoln renewed his courtship.

The morning of Nov. 4, 1842, Abe and Mary suddenly announced they would be married the same evening. There were few guests at the ceremony. Mary wore a white dress, but no veil or flowers.

A week after the wedding, Lincoln wrote to a friend: "Nothing new here, except my marrying, which is to me a matter of profound wonder."

To Mary Todd, Lincoln became a faithful, patient husband. Such he would remain until the spring evening his wife persuaded him to see the play at Ford's Theatre.

The Prayer
from
The Upper Room

PRAYER: Father, give to us a large measure of compassion. As we do our work and mingle with persons, may we strive to bring calm where there is confusion, instill faith to banish doubt, build confidence to replace fear, offer comfort to those who are in sorrow. In the name of the compassionate Christ. Amen.

They sat down with him upon the ground seven days and seven nights, and non spake a word unto him: for thoy saw that his grief was very great. (Job 2:13)

All-Women Jury

In Colonial history, importance is attached to the Judith Catchpole case because she was tried on a charge of murder before a jury of 11 women. This is the first recorded instance of a jury composed entirely of women.

Petitions Ask Illmo-Scott City Consolidation Vote

ILLMO-SCOTT CITY: Members of the committee for the consolidation of Illmo and Scott City, and other citizens, started circulation of petitions Feb. 3, in the twin-cities calling for an election regarding the consolidation of the two towns.

Kenneth Raney, chairman of the committee seeking the merger, said that when the required number of names are obtained, which is 100 from each city, the petitions will be presented to the city councils of each city. The councils then will be required to forward the petitions to the County Court of Scott County. The court then will call an election within from 10 to 30 days after receiving the petitions.

Anyone interested in the move may obtain information by contacting Raney in Illmo or Collin Dover and Joe Goodman in Scott City.

The consolidation move was begun by the consolidation committee about three years ago, Raney said. The original idea was to have the two city councils, because of their experience in city government, call an election. Many starts were made in this direction with the cooperation of both councils, but for various reasons, the move was continually stalled, Raney stated.

It is the desire of the committee that both councils will cooperate by expediting the procedure of the petitions in order that an election may be called before the coming city elections, Raney said.

Raney stated that in any case, the election will be called according to the laws of Missouri.

Road Bumpy for Good Reason

HANCOCK, Mich. (AP) — Arthur Pudas was puzzled by the bumpiness of the road but apparently was unconcerned until he saw a train heading his way.

Pudas had been driving along in a blizzard and didn't notice a bend in the road. Instead, he kept going straight ahead along snow-covered railroad tracks.

He traveled about 500 feet before meeting the train. The engineer stopped and the driver got off the track safely.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

NEW YORK (AP) — Littered ski slopes are proving to be upsetting to skiers.

Keep America Beautiful Inc., the national antilitter organization, warns that beverage containers, lunch cartons and other items left on the ski trail can trip the unwary skier causing painful injury.

KAB reminds that in addition to the danger, litter on ski slopes is unsightly. Even though the slope may be covered by fresh snow, litter will eventually show its ugly face to mar the green beauty that should follow spring's thaw.

Suggested Name

Martin Waldseemuller, in a book he wrote in 1507, requested that our mainland be called America "because Americus (Amerigo Vespucci) discovered it." Though Vespucci's claim that he reached America a year before Columbus was never completely verified, Waldseemuller's suggestion took hold.

Suggested Name

Martin Waldseemuller, in a book he wrote in 1507, requested that our mainland be called America "because Americus (Amerigo Vespucci) discovered it." Though Vespucci's claim that he reached America a year before Columbus was never completely verified, Waldseemuller's suggestion took hold.

Realtors to Meet

The Sikeston Board of Realtors will meet at noon Tuesday at Two Tony's Restaurant. Title insurance will be discussed.

The United States ranks fourth in world population.

Cuba lies only 90 miles from the continental United States.
